Juncker: 'EU must live up to refugee vows'

A TOP European Union official has pressed leaders of the 28 member states to live up to pledges to tackle the refugee emergency, saying their credibility is at stake if they fail to act.

European Commission president Jean-Claude Juncker said: "Member states have got to do what they promised."

His statement came as EU leaders arrived in Brussels for a summit focused on the refugee crisis.

The leaders promised last month to step up spending and provide more experts to help fingerprint and screen the thousands of people arriving in Europe daily seeking refuge or jobs, but few countries have come forward with money or personnel.

The EC complained that only three of 28 nations have pledged a total of just 12m euros to a fund that is meant to total 1.8bn euros.

Train drivers' 48-hour strike

TRAIN drivers are to stage a 48-hour strike in a row over pay.

Members of the Rail, Maritime and Transport union at Arriva Trains Wales will walk out on October 22 and 23 after accusing the company of "dragging its feet" over this year's pay award.

General secretary Mick Cash said: "RMT is not prepared to tolerate Arriva Trains Wales's delaying tactics any longer. Train drivers deserve a fair pay offer and real improvements in their working conditions.

"We have been left with no alternative than to call strike action,"

BRUISER BORIS!

He floors Chinese boy in rugby stunt

BORIS Johnson flattened a child during a game of street rugby in Japan.

The Mayor of London took out the 10-year-old schoolboy as he raced down the mini turf pitch in Tokyo.

Toki Sekiguchi hit the ground and suffered some pain – but was soon up and running again.

He said: "I felt a little bit of pain but it's OK." The boy said it had been "enjoyable" meeting the mayor.

Mr Johnson, a keen rugby fan, was hurtling down the pitch at speed with the rugby ball when he ploughed into the little boy.

"I'm so sorry," he said after shaking the boy's hand.

The pair later posed for photographs and Mr Johnson handed over a 2015 rugby ball to the youngster.

Brit killed in Miami hit 'n' run

A BRIT has been killed in a hit-and-run while on holiday in the USA.

Andrew Hamilton, 27, from Chester, was fatally struck by a BMW that witnesses claim was travelling at speeds of 100mph in Miami Beach, Florida.

The driver of the car fled the scene of the collision and is now being hunted by police.

It is believed Mr Hamilton (above), who was on holiday with another British tourist, was using a pedestrian crossing when the incident happened in the early hours of Tuesday.

Friends have begun paying tribute to the airline cabin crew worker, with one describing him as 'one of the nicest people you could meet'.

Mr Hamilton's cousin, Jade Kilgallon, wrote on Facebook, 'R.I.P to my cousin Andrew Hamilton who sadly passed away in a hit and run while on holiday in Miami.'

Donna Rhodes added, 'Heaven has gained another angel , one of the nicest people you could meet. Andrew Hamilton you will be missed by many.'

GANG RAID JAMIE'S £7M HOME

BURGLED: The home (below) of Jamie and wife Jools

TV chef targeted during rural break

JAMIE Oliver's home was targeted by burglars who stole property from his basement after breaking in through the garage.

The TV chef only found out that his house in North London had been burgled after a neighbour noticed a door had been left open.

Police are now examining CCTV footage in a bid to track down the thieves, who struck following reports that the celebrity chef and his family were due to move house.

It is believed burglars forced their way into the £7million home through a garage, then broke into the basement and stole two electrical items.

A neighbour called 999 after seeing an open door at the property.

Mr Oliver, 40, his wife Jools and their four children are thought to have been staying at their country home in Essex at the time of the burglary.

They are in the process of leaving the house and moving into a new £10m home in Hampstead.

The Grade II-listed house, which Mr Oliver bought recently, dates back to the 17th century and boasts eight bedrooms as well as a huge garden.

Builders are carrying out improvements to the new property before the Oliver family can move there.

Neighbours of the chef say burglars step up their crimes over autumn and winter.

One local said: "The police regularly advise us to review our security arrangements at this time of year as burglars are known to scout the area looking for empty homes.

"Jamie's home has got CCTV, but it seems it didn't help in this instance."

Sex crimes at highest ever

THE number of sex offences reported to police is at the highest level since records began in 2002, says the Office for National Statistics.

They are up by 41 per cent from last year, the equivalent of an additional 27,602 offences, the Crime Survey for England and Wales has found.

A total of 95,482 sex crimes, including 31,621 rapes, were reported to the cops in the last year.

The increase is due to better police records and more victims of attacks reporting them, according to the ONS.

A spokesman said: "This is also thought to reflect a greater willingness of victims to come forward."

Rape Crisis answered 165,000 helpline calls and provided support for more than 50,000 survivors last year.

TERROR PLOT GIRL'S 'DEEP REGRET'

A SCHOOLGIRL held after UK police discovered an Anzac Day terror plot in Australia has been given a 12-month referral order.

The 16-year-old, from Manchester, intended to hack into the White House and became obsessed with suicide bombings after becoming radicalised online, Manchester Youth Court heard.

The girl, who can't be named for legal reasons, admitted two offences of downloading terrorist information at an earlier hearing.

She was sentenced to an intensive 12-month referral order with youth offending teams to address her radicalisation.

Passing sentence, District Judge Khalid Qureshi said: "It must be every parent's worst nightmare to discover their child has been accessing material they should not, of whatever type."

The girl, flanked by her mother and an aunt, told the judge: "I deeply regret what I have done.

"I wish to make changes if I get the chance to prove I am not a terrorist."

The girl was first detained by anti-terror police in April along with Britain's youngest convicted Islamic terrorist – a boy of 14 from Blackburn, Lancs, who admitted encouraging an IS-inspired beheading attack on officers at the annual Anzac Day parade in Melbourne.

The boy, now 15, was jailed for life last month at the Old Bailey after pleading guilty to inciting terrorism abroad.

The girl, who has no previous convictions or cautions, told police: "I thought I would one day hack into the White House."

Cara brings out lezza in Selena!

HORNY Selena Gomez has revealed bi-sexual model Cara Delevingne made her think she was a LESBIAN.

The 23-year-old singer has dated a string of lads including pop brat Justin Bieber and former Disney star Nick Jonas.

But the brunette beauty (above) admitted to questioning her own lady leanings after being linked to sexy catwalk babe Cara.

Texas born Selena said: "I loved being linked to Cara, she's incredible and very open and she just makes me open.

"She's just extremely adventurous and incredible and I definitely questioned my own sexuality.

"I think it's healthy to gain a perspective on who you are deep down, question yourself and challenge yourself."

She'll be getting her knickers in a twist after being confirmed as a performer in this year's Victoria Secret fashion show alongside chart-topper Rihanna.

She is also known to be pals with I Kissed a Girl singer Kate Perry and blonde superstar Taylor Swift.

Kirsty addicted to having kids

BROODY Kirsty Gallacher says she's addicted to having kids.

The Strictly Come Dancing star already has two children with rugby ace Paul Sampson.

But the Edinburgh-born beauty said she's not through yet, and revealed squeezing out sprogs is "like a drug".

The 29-year-old (above), who split from Paul last year, said: "I would love more kids. If I happen to be in the situation in the next few years where I could have more then yes, I would.

"I love being a mum and I get broody quite a lot. I had great birth experiences and I know I'm very lucky for that.

"Giving birth is a bit of a drug for me and I kind of want to go back there."

The Sky Sports host is one of the front runners in this year's show alongside dance partner Brendan Cole.

Lucy's hunk: I'd have sex with a robot!

GYMNAST Louis Smith has revealed that he would have sex with a ROBOT...but only if he didn't have a girlfriend.

The 26-year-old, who won a silver medal at the London Olympic Games on the pommel horse, is currently dating former TOWIE star Lucy Mecklenburgh.

The pair met last year when Louis was a judge on BBC One show Tumble and Lucy was a contestant, announcing that they'd started a relationship at the end of 2014.

Speaking at the weekend, however, the gymnast – who won Strictly Come Dancing in 2012 – said he would bonk a machine.

Robots are currently being developed by a string of firms to function as 'sexbots', with bosses at firm True Companion saying it has created the world's first sex robot, called Roxxxy.

Louis, asked if he would ever has sex with it, said: "In 30 years' time, I might. The technology doesn't seem great at the moment.

"I have a girlfriend so I think I'd rather stick with the real thing."

He also told Tech Monthly that watching porn "was fine" and that the only thing that should be censored online was "terroristy stuff".

Jen: 'Men are lucky people ...with dicks!'

GORGEOUS Jennifer Lawrence described men as just "lucky people with DICKS".

The Hunger Games actress made the comment when she was asked about the gender pay gap between stars in Hollywood.

And 25-year-old Jen (above) said she was left reeling at herself when she found out she was being paid a lot less than her male co-stars for her role as Rosalyn in 2013 flick American Hustle.

She said: "When the Sony hack happened and I found out how much less I was being paid than the lucky people with dicks, I didn't get mad at Sony. I got mad at myself.

"I didn't want to seem 'difficult' or 'spoilt'. At the time that seemed like a fine idea, until I saw the payroll.

"And realised every man I was working with definitely didn't worry about being 'difficult' or 'spoilt'."

But Jennifer had the last laugh after she secured a salary over £5m more than co-star Chris Prattfor her role in upcoming movie Passengers.

Sugar bitter at Arnie role

TOUGH Apprentice boss Lord Sugar let rip into his American counterpart Arnold Schwarzenegger.

The businessman pulled no punches when he revealed he cannot wait to see the Hollywood A-lister fail when he takes over the U.S. version of the show.

Arnie was brought in to replace Donald Trump on Celebrity Apprentice for TV channel NBC.

The 68-year-old will begin his new role in 2016, as Republican presidential candidate Trump was 'fired' after his inflammatory comments about immigrants.

But Lord Sugar mocked the appointment, as he went head-to-head with Arnie for the job.

He said: "To be blunt, the American public have no idea who I am so they went with a name they know. I can't wait to see what a cock-up he's going to make of it."

Got Wood,

BIG BRUV ROONEY HOOKER'S SIZZLING NEW PHOTOSHOOT

FOOTIE hooker Helen Wood scores a few points of her own – after stripping down for these sizzling naked snaps.

The former Big Brother star shot to fame after shagging Premier League ace Wayne Rooney.

And we're sure the soon-to-be-30-year-old will be hitting the woodwork after clamping eyes on the brunette's one-twos.

Helen, 27, caused a stir when she entered the celebrity house this year. But her stint in the Channel 5 hit show came to an abrupt end when she was voted off in the early evictions.

A source said: "Helen and Wayne have at least one thing in common, they are both experienced ball handlers!"

Now where's the magic sponge?

CHALLENGE: Mason Noise has returned

LOOK

Mason in for Tom

CONTROVERSIAL X Factor contestant Mason Noise is back on the show as a replacement for Tom Bleasby, who quit the contest earlier in the week for personal reasons.

By KERRI-ANN ROPER
news@sundaysport.co.uk

Mason was branded "a complete arsehole" by judge Simon Cowell during his audition after he threw a strop over the length of his audition slot.

Cowell ended up telling him he was "five seconds away from getting thrown off this stage", and then did just that.

In an official statement the X Factor's Nick Grimshaw explained his decision to bring Wayne?

BIG BOTHER: Helen shows off her assets in new nude pic. She once romped with Wayne but didn't last long in BB house.

Gemma: I blew off Fatman!

TOWIE tubby Gemma Collins has revealed she blew off Celebrity Big Brother star Fatman Scoop.

Collins, 34, who famously walked out of last year's I'm A Celebrity…Get Me Out Of Here! after only three days, claimed that the American rap star wouldn't leave her alone and kept pestering her for a date.

Fatman Scoop – real name is Isaac Freeman III – was part of this year's Celebrity Big Bro, representing the USA, who was the third celebrity voted off the C5 series.

Blonde Gemma said the rapper repeatedly tried to meet up with her but she knocked him back.

The former regular on The Only Way Is Essex said: "He drove me insane, I thought it was a wind-up. The night before I went to Dubai on holiday he wanted to meet up, but I didn't get back to him!

"Fatman ain't for me."

Collins decided to quit TOWIE in August to concentrate on other projects which include her own clothing range.

WHO'S BACK!

to make more Noise on X Factor

Mason back, saying: "After Tom decided to leave the show, Mason was the person I wanted to bring back.

"Yes, he was difficult at the six chair challenge, but people with an artistic temperament can be difficult. He's talented, and in previous auditions excited us judges. Sometimes a challenge is interesting."

Mason said: "I appreciate Nick inviting me back on the show. And even more so, I appreciate the fact that he understands what I am trying to achieve. Challenge accepted!"

He will join Grimmy at the judge's houses stage along with the other boys in Grimshaw's category: Ben Clark, Che Chesterman, Josh Daniel, Seann Miley Moore and Simon Lynch.

Tom explained his reasons for leaving the show on the official X Factor website at ITV.com.

"It was a tough decision. I think I really discovered it at the six chair challenge," he said.

"I just don't know if I felt vocally ready to take on the competition and the pressure."

He added: "I'm quite a relatively new singer. Back in March, I was singing in my bedroom, so I've never took to live performing very well.

"I'm still discovering myself, and in the competition there are some amazing singers and I feel like I need more time to get better myself, as I don't feel like I'm strong enough."

Tom continued: "Moving forward, without being 100 per cent, would have been selfish on my part because I would have stopped someone else who was at 100 per cent vocally from going further.

"Hopefully, I could get there with more time to grow artistically and vocally."

UNREADY: Tom with Grimmy

Car cop was twice over driving limit

A POLICE officer has been banned from getting behind the wheel after she drove to work while twice the drink-drive limit.

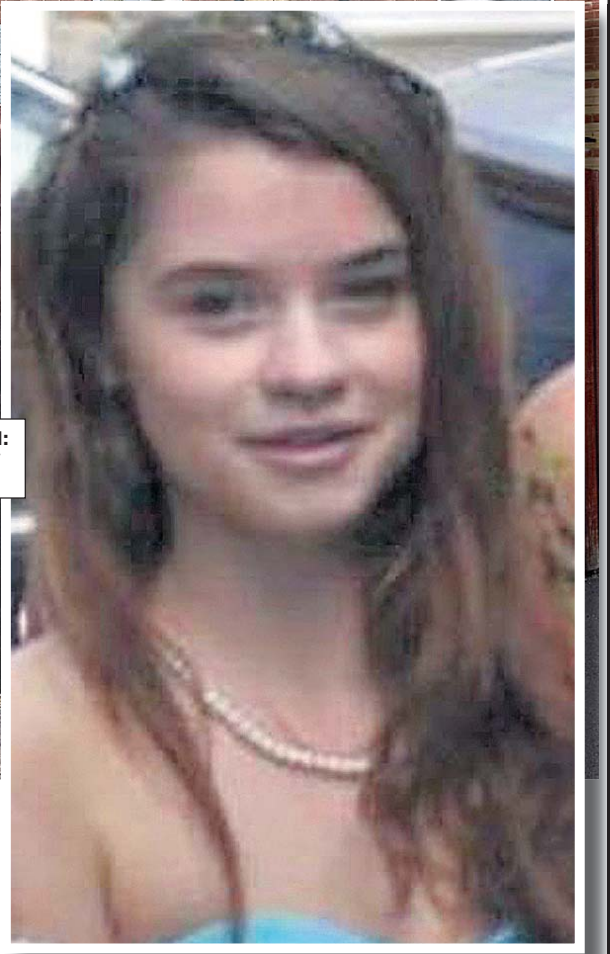
A court heard that PC Nicola Townsend, 30, had been seen to park her car before an inspector smelled alcohol on her.

She was asked to take a breath test at Guildford police station which showed she had 70mg of alcohol in 100ml of breath – the legal limit is 35mg.

Her defence said Ms Townsend, of Billingshurst, West Sussex, had just returned from a long flight and had taken herbal tablets to help combat jet lag which she feared might have affected her alcohol tolerance.

She pleaded guilty to the charge to JPs at Basingstoke and was given an 18-month ban, fined £550 and ordered to pay £235 costs and a £55 victim surcharge.

BECKY'S BODY PARTS IN SHED WITH KNIFE AND HANDCUFFS



VICTIM: Becky Watt

By ROD MINCHIN
news@sundaysport.co.uk

Family flee court in tears as gory details come out

BECKY Watts's family fled court in tears as jurors saw clothing and blood-stained implements from the shed where the teen's dismembered body was found.

Her aunt, Sarah Broom, left the public gallery after the jury were shown a blood-stained green jumper with a cut all the way down the back.

The panel was also shown a 12.5cm bladed knife, a pair of scissors and two screwdrivers that were found in a rucksack in a garden shed in Barton Hill, Bristol.

Also in the bag were blood-stained safety goggles and two masks, which had make-up stains on the inside, a shower curtain, tape and pliers, Avon and Somerset Police crime scene investigator Lucy Pinkard told the court.

There was also a black, faux leather jacket and two bottles of drain cleaner.

Staining

Earlier, the jury was shown three suitcases, a blue plastic box and a bin liner, in which Becky's body parts were found.

In one of the suitcases, items inside were wrapped in three layers of cling film and a black bin bag.

They included a pair of socks, a onesie with blood staining, a wooden bead and broken beaded bracelet, a duvet cover, a pillow case with blood staining, the green jumper and a white duvet cover with blood staining and scorch marks.

Becky was allegedly murdered in her bedroom in Crown Hill, Bristol, by her stepbrother Nathan Matthews, 28, and his girlfriend Shauna Hoare, 21.

Jurors previously heard that Becky was probably wearing a onesie and green jumper when she died.

Prosecutors allege the pair shared a sexual interest in teenage girls and attempted to kidnap Becky on February 19 this year.

Her remains were found in a garden shed at Barton Court – just 80 metres from Matthews and Hoare's home – on March 2.

The residents of the Barton Court property, Karl Demetrius, 30, and his partner Jaydene Parsons, 23, admit assisting an offender.

Donovan Demetrius – Karl's twin brother – of Bristol, and James Ireland, 23, of Avonmouth, a work colleague of Karl, deny the charge.

Matthews, of Warmley, South Glocs, denies murder and conspiracy to kidnap.

He admits killing Becky, perverting the course of justice, preventing burial of a corpse and possessing a prohibited weapon.

Hoare, of Bristol, denies murder, conspiracy to kidnap, perverting the course of justice, preventing burial of a corpse and possessing a prohibited weapon.

The jury was also shown a black case found in the shed in which police recovered the £80 MacAllister circular saw used to dismember Becky's body.

BAGS SHE WAS FOUND IN

THESE are the bags and suitcases used to hide Becky Watts's body parts and the gruesome collection of tools used to dismember her. The police yesterday released photos of the bags as details of what was found in the garden shed were revealed in court.

Miley: I want to spray nude fans in milk!

OUTRAGEOUS Miley Cyrus plans to ramp up her shock performances – by doing a concert completely NAKED.

And if that wasn't enough, the former child star also wants to be covered in MILK.

The 22-year-old (above) revealed the controversial stunt to promote her new song The Milky Milky Milk.

The idea is that Miley – and anyone at the concert – would be starkers and then sprayed with a white liquid designed to look like milk.

The outrageous plans were revealed by Flaming Lips star Wayne Coyne, whose band collaborated with Miley on latest single Dooo It!

Coyne, 54, posted on Twitter: "Oh fk..!!! @mileycyrus is planning a show where her, the band (us) and the audience are all COMPLETELY naked with milk (well white stuff that looks like milk) is being spewed everywhere.

"It's a video (in the works) for #mileycyrusandher deadpetz song 'The Milky Milky Milk'."

The 25-year-old once bonked on camera – and pissed the bed after a boozing session.

But despite kicking the carbs and cleaning up her lifestyle, she admitted she struggled to cross her legs with Love Island winner Max Morley, 32.

And the Sunderland born babe ended up seducing him with filthy sexts.

She said: "It was really respectful at first…but then it got a little bit rude!

JK ROWLING: I'M TOO OLD FOR SEX PARTIES

By WENDY THOMAS
news@sundaysport.co.uk

JK ROWLING has turned down an invitation to STRIP down to her panties and party.

Exeter University's most famous graduate moaned that she was "too old" to do it.

The Harry Potter author declined the free invitation to attend the uni's sex-themed ball.

Rowling, who studied at Exeter University in the 1980s, was asked to the Safer Sex Ball – which sees students party in their underwear for charity.

Organiser Pierre G H Keyzar said: "If you fancy re-visiting Exeter, hit us up Jo-Jo."

Scandal

But Rowling, 50, said she was "three decades too old" to enjoy the event.

She wrote on Twitter: "Thanks for the kind invitation! I've got a feeling I'm three decades too old to enjoy this, but you have fun!"

The ball was banned by the university in 2013 after a scandal involving a sexual act between two students during the previous year's event.

But it returned last year as a privately run event – and raised £10,000 for Devon sexual health group the Eddystone Trust.

Jem's sizzling tits 'n tats show!

JUICY Jemma Lucy showed off some serious cleavage as she barely managed to contain her gigantic 30G boobs this week.

The Ex On The Beach babe was all smiles as she showed the world that her tits are just as great as her tats during a night out in Newcastle.

Jemma, 27, made a big splash on the reality programme, arriving as Laura Alicia's ex and sleeping with former TOWIE star Kirk Norcross.

And the bisexual model stole the show again by parading her ample assets in this low cut dress.

PREM ACE SKRTEL 'IN HOTEL BUST-UP'

LIVERPOOL footie star Martin Skrtel was at a player's wild party when police were called after a bar was damaged at a hotel in Luxemburg.

Officers arrived at 3.40am after a fire alarm had been set off and Slovak players were shouting, singing and drinking after qualifying for the European Championships in 2016.

Defender Skrtel, 30 (right), was asked to return to his room with the other players as police told the players to calm down.

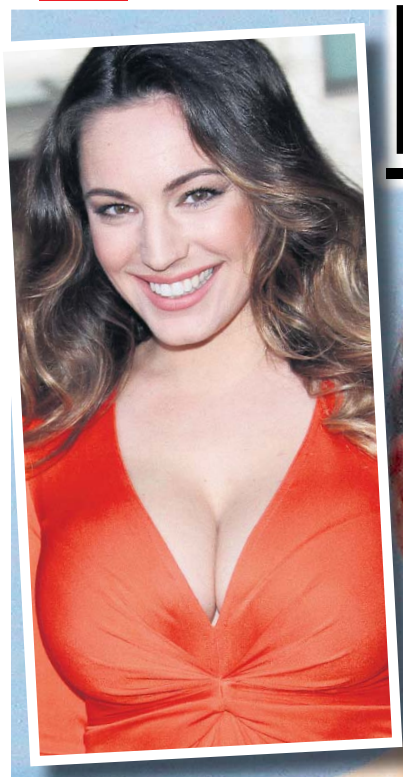
The embarrassed Slovak Football Association agreed to pay for the damage when guests complained about the party getting out of hand.

The incident happened at the Hilton Dommeldange after Slovakia beat Luxemburg 4-2 to finish second in Group C.

A statement from the Slovak FA said: "The players were in a separate room where they were singing. After the police came, they left to go to their own rooms. The damage has been paid for."

Fellow defender Jan Durica was also criticised the next day after giving a rude gesture to a journalist which was caught on video after arriving back in Slovakia.

Juraj Curny, spokesman of the Slovak national team, said: "The gesture of Jan Durica was not justifiable. On the other hand, the hounding by photographers was not justified."



Kelly Brook: I'm thinking about a boob job!

BUSTY Kelly Brook says she wouldn't rule out surgery to enhance her MASSIVE norks.

The brunette model, who is famed for her curves, insisted her impressive body is still 100% natural and said she would prefer to keep it that way.

But Kelly, 35, admitted she wouldn't rule out going under the knife to maintain her sizzling good looks and trim figure.

Pert

And she hinted that she could even resort to having a boob job to keep her 30FF knockers pert.

The Brighton-born actress said: "I will try to achieve everything naturally if I can.

"I'm 35 and I like how I look, but who knows how I'll feel in the future?

"Maybe when I get older I may consider plastic surgery."

Curvy Kelly has been dating Judo star Jeremy Parisi since April, after she split from fiancé David McIntosh in September last year.

Happy Kelly recently described French hunk Jeremy as 'the one' and said they are definitely headed towards marriage.

'Lobster boobs' boss faces unfair dismissal cases

A BOSS told a shocked colleague he would only eat lobster if it was served off a worker's mum's BREASTS, a tribunal heard.

When a woman asked for a day off to see her doctor, Deepa Tumber moaned, 'Oh fk, she's pregnant', it is claimed.

Wendi Lancaster, 35 (above), and her colleague Fatrizia Nosal, 36, are claiming unfair dismissal against software giants Fidessa, where Mr Tumber was Global Head of Connectivity.

Ms Nosal claims when she asked Mr Tumber if he was going for lunch he replied, 'Go fk yourself'.

Mr Tumber is alleged to have picked on the two mothers and forced them into redundancy last year after they took maternity leave from the firm's office in Woking, Surrey.

Mr Tumber and Fidessa PLC deny claims of sexual discrimination, unfair treatment and unfair dismissal.

Mrs Nosal told the tribunal in Watford that an engineer asked Mr Tumber whether he ate lobster, and his reply was, 'Only from your mother's left breast...is she coming too?'

Hearing continues.

Angry? That's down to tatts

PEOPLE with tattoos are more likely to be aggressive and rebellious than those without, a study has found.

Researchers at Anglia Ruskin University looked into whether the fact body art had become more mainstream in recent years – a trend influenced by the likes of footballer David Beckham – had affected traditional stereotypes.

They found individuals with tatts reported significantly higher levels of verbal aggression, anger and rebelliousness compared with non-inked adults.

The research, by Anglia Ruskin University, also showed a correlation between the number of tattoos a person had and their levels of anger.

VICKY HAS A FAKIN' DIG AT MICHELLE

CLAIMS: Vicky

'She's had stuff done...it's with moving to Essex'

By JACK MOTTERSHEAD
jack@sundaysport.co.uk

GEORDIE Shore star Vicky Pattison has launched a cat-fight with Michelle Keegan, after she accused the ex Corrie babe of becoming 'fake'.

Vicky has sparked tension with the actress after she slammed Michelle's new look and claimed she has had work done since tying the knot and moving to Essex.

The feisty brunette, 27, criticised Mark Wright's missus, 28, for getting too caught up in the 'plastic' culture associated with The Only Way Is Essex and for becoming 'obsessed' with looking good since moving down south.

Vicky said: "I think she's had lots of stuff done – lips, Botox, cheek fillers and her eyebrows tattooed.

"It's a shame – as she was one of those women every man was obsessed with. I guess it was a bit of a culture shock moving to Essex where the polished look is so big."

But Michelle has denied all reports that she may have gone under the knife and she has previously insisted that her beauty regime consists of cleansing and moisturising only.

Vicky recently broke up with her boyfriend Stephen Bear after seeing footage of him cheating on MTV show Ex On The Beach, where they first hooked up.

The Bradford-born babe stripped down to her undies to show off her sexy 32DD winter warmers for this brand new photoshoot.

She said: "Every girl dreams of an open log fire, soft fur rug and a handsome bloke to cuddle up to when it's cold outside.

"I'd love to visit a log cabin in the middle of nowhere with a guy, when there's only each other to keep ourselves entertained.

"I really want to have sex outside this winter."

And the brunette added: "I've never timed it before but I remember with one guy we went all night – and into the early morning.

"We had a few breaks but we kept going."

Phoebe's a flash girl!

SIZZLING Phoebe Price seemed to have forgotten something when she stepped out in this completely SEE-THROUGH frock.

The 43-year-old actress, from Alabama, US, didn't look phased as she took a stroll and flashed her BARE ARSE and enormous BOOBS in the barely-there chiffon dress.

The attention-seeking star is no stranger to flaunting her assets in revealing outfits – so it's no surprise she chose to team the otherwise demure gown with just a flesh-coloured thong and a pair of black stilettos.

One onlooker said: "I've never heard of her either. But Christ, you could almost see what see had for lunch!"

AFTER DINNER MINGE!

Sir Tom likes a shag after every meal

LADY lover Sir Tom Jones revealed he likes a shag after EVERY meal.

The 75-year-old famously bonked 300 ladies a year at the height of his fame.

But it seems the ageing crooner hasn't lost any of his sex drive after qualifying for his bus pass.

Welsh born Tom said his favourite pastimes are still drinking, smoking and dipping his wick.

The Sex Bomb singer admitted his saucy passion in his book The Life.

He said: "After dinner I always like to have the four Cs – Champagne, cigars, cognac and c".

It's been a rough year for Sir Tom. The star was given the boot from BBC reality show The Voice, and then caused outrage when he complained about his wife of 58 years Melinda "losing her spark".

He also came under fire this week after claiming that BBC paedo DJ Jimmy Savile was a "good man" who helped launch his career.

Sir Tom made the admission during a radio interview with BBC 5 Live.

He said: "To me, Jimmy Savile was a good man."

Lea stops show with pert arse!

LUSTY Lea Michele has boasted that her epic arse is a total showstopper.

The sexy actress is known for flashing the flesh on social media, so it came as no surprise when she revealed just how proud of her banging body she is.

The 29-year-old (above) admitted that she loved every part of her fiery figure but drew emphasis to the attention that her pert bum cheeks bring her.

She said: "I love my butt. It's what I get the most attention for but I don't care – it's a total showstopper."

Lea rose to fame on the TV show Glee, which she starred in from 2009 to 2015, and revealed that right now she feels more satisfied than ever before.

But she opened up about moving on from the tragic death of her boyfriend and Glee co-star Cory Monteith, who died of a heroin and alcohol overdose in 2013.

She said: "Getting to the other side takes a lot of work, it's a struggle, but when you do, there is happiness there."

You gotta laugh!

I BOUGHT a Bonnie Tyler satnav, but it was crap – it kept telling me to turn around, and every now and then it falls apart.

Bridge players lose 'sport' bid

BRIDGE is still a card game... and NOT a sport.

Players who wanted the card game defined as a sport have LOST a High Court fight.

Sport England refuses to recognise bridge as a sport because it does not involve "physical activity".

English Bridge Union officials mounted a challenge – but a judge ruled against them after a hearing in London.

Mr Justice Dove began a written ruling on the case with the words: "Bridge is a card game..."

The English Bridge Union said it was considering an appeal.

Ian Payn, vice-chairman of the EBU, said: "This very old-fashioned definition of sport means that Sport England is unlikely ever to recognise bridge as a sport.

"We are very disappointed."

BINKY: I'M A GREAT SHAG!

(...and I'll do it on the first date)

LIKES BIT OF ROUGH: Binky

MADE in Chelsea* star Binky may be prim and proper in the hit reality show – but she revealed she likes it ROUGH between the sheets.

The 25-year-old, real name Alexandra Felstead, said that despite her posh dating record on the E4 show, she'd really like to bed a real bloke.

And the wealthy brunette admitted he'd have the night of his life, because she's a great shag.

By SAM WALKER
samw@sundaysport.co.uk

The London-born stunna said: "I don't like posh boys, I like a bit of rough and tumble.

"And I'm good at banging."

Binky is currently starring in a Made in Chelsea spin off set in Los Angeles.

She hasn't wasted much time getting down and dirty after bagging new fella Charlie Tupper-Fell.

The rich consultant is a pal of Binky's ex-bloke and reality co-star Alex Mytton,

Since returning from the States, Binky has posted a series of racy snaps on Instagram after overhauling her fitness across the pond.

And it looks like her new squeeze won't have to wait long to get his hands on her toned body, because the saucy celebrity admitted she WILL bonk on the first date.

She added: "To get a guy, definitely do not put out on the first night – unless you really want to."

Peter's plan after Strictly – get bonking!

STRICTLY star Peter Andre is already praying for the show to end – so he can bonk his new wife.

The Brit-born Aussie pop star is a firm favourite to take home the famous glitter ball trophy, but he confessed he has other things on his mind.

Peter (above), 42, confessed he can't wait to start trying for another baby with his missus, Emily McDonagh, who he married in July.

And the Mysterious Girl singer revealed if it was up to him, he wouldn't waste any time before getting down to business again for his second child with Emily.

The dad-of-three said: "I'm completely besotted with my wife, we fancy each other like mad.

"We're not trying for another baby at the moment but I'd start right now. We'd love a Strictly baby but this month is chaotic."

Peter and qualified doctor Emily, who is 16 years his junior, already have a one-year-old daughter together called Amelia.

THE RETURNED BABES...TOPLESS

FANS of The Returned are in for a treat as the show's sizzling babes make a return to the small screen.

The sexy stars of More 4's French supernatural drama make a very welcome reappearance tonight (Friday) at 9pm.

The thriller stars Gallic hotties Anne Consigny, Clotilde Hesme and Céline Sallette, and tells the story of a small French mountain town inhabited by the dead, who appear alive and well.

Norks

The first series saw its stars regularly flashing the flesh, so here's hoping the second will continue in the much the same way.

All three actresses are no strangers to baring all – with Consigny whipping her pert norks out in 2011 movie E-Love.

And Hesme brandished her boobs in 2009 flick Happy End.

Meanwhile sexy Sallete flashed her bangers in 2011 release House of Tolerance.

EastEnders SAM STALKER HELL

AN obsessed fan has admitted stalking EastEnders' actress Samantha Womack.

Peter Rombough travelled 93 miles from his home on two occasions to the soap star's §address.

On September 4 this year six-foot four-inch tall Rombough arrived in the late morning and delivered a love letter in a post box at the side gate of her family home in Cardington, Beds.

FANTASY: Rombough

Five days later Samantha, 42, saw a light from his mobile phone in the early hours of the morning. Later her husband Mark confronted Rombough, who was sitting by a wall outside the house.

Luton Magistrates' Court heard Rombough left and posted an apology to the couple on Twitter, in which he said: "I never meant to cause upset. I'm very sorry."

By ANN COATES
news@sundaysport.co.uk

Rombough, of Bungay, Suffolk, pleaded guilty to one charge of stalking Samantha Janus – her maiden name.

Probation

He was due to be sentenced yesterday but the case was adjourned for a probation report.

A psychiatric report has already been written which will be acted upon by a specialist team in Norfolk.

In a statement Samantha said she was distressed by the incidents but she was receiving treatment.

The court heard Rombough admitted to the police his fantasies about Samantha had started in 2009 when he was 16. He said he had an unhealthy crush on her that was out of control.

He was granted bail with a condition that he must not contact or communicate with Samantha Womack. He will be sentenced by Great Yarmouth JPs next month.

DISTRESSED: Samantha

Sizzling snog gave Kourtney a lesbo crush

KOURTNEY Kardashian revealed she was turned LESBIAN after locking lips with her pal.

The oldest of the reality clan is rumoured to be bisexual after she confessed that a passionate snog with Orange is the New Black star Jackie Cruz left her spellbound.

Mum-of-three Kourtney said the scorching actress, who plays Marisol in the hit Netflix series, is the first girl she has had a crush on.

And the 36-year-old also revealed that Jackie isn't the first girl she's smooched – and admitted she experimented in college.

Kourtney said: "Jackie is carefree and fun, she just kind of like has this spell."

Kourtney is said to be looking for love after splitting from long-term love Scott Disick earlier this year.

But she showed her ex exactly what he was missing when she stripped for a naked photo shoot with photographer Brian Bowen.

You gotta laugh!

I GOT hit on the head by a clock yesterday – serves me right for winding it up.

OAPs in sex split over Viagra snub

AN 84-year-old woman is divorcing her hubby, 88, because he wasn't SHAGGING her enough.

The randy ex-teacher moaned they had sex only twice a month.

And she added insult to injury by claiming her first two hubbies were far better in the sack.

During mediation, she admitted that the divorce proceedings on the grounds of "sexual unfulfilment" had been an "elaborate rouse" to get him to take Viagra.

Her retired bank clerk fella refused to take the stiffy pill – saying it was due to a heart condition.

But he finally owned up to a lawyer and said he preferred "playing boules with my friends" to having sex with his missus in Scafati, Italy.

His frustrated and outraged wife then vowed to find herself a new lover.

Real-life Sex Lives

THIS WEEK: HAVING A ONE-TRACK MIND AND HAPPY ABOUT IT

By JUSTIN DUNN
news@sundaysport.co.uk

Forced to quit my job... because I'm addicted to SEX!

LAURA Malloy loves BONKING so much that she claims she has no time for work!

The saucy singlton says she's so addicted to sex that she's had to give up her full-time job.

The 26-year-old, from Halifax, West Yorks, has such a high libido that she has to spend all day either pursuing men or masturbating to porn films.

Laura handed in her notice in, in a call centre, four months ago after she was given a warning for visiting smutty websites during work time.

She has also admitted that "incessant" thoughts about nasty nookie made it hard for her to concentrate on dealing with customers.

Here she tells Weekend Sport how her high sex drive means she has to 'polish the pearl' up to 10 times a day...

THE first time I masturbated as a teenager I felt equally ecstatic and shameful.

Nothing could have prepared me for that earth-shattering experience as the warm water from the power shower cascaded over my lady bits and brought me to my first orgasm.

But I knew one thing – I was immediately hooked. And after that, sex was always on my mind.

Before I started dating properly, I relied on do it yourself pleasure – and I couldn't get enough.

The world of porn was just a mouse click away and I found myself staying up late and watching it for hours on end.

When I was at college during the day, I'd find my mind wandering and all I could think about was different sexual positions and scenarios.

When I began dating, each boyfriend was pleasantly surprised by my enthusiasm for porn and my appetite for rumpy pumpy round the clock.

If my man wasn't able to satisfy me at least twice a day I would end up dumping him.

I loved porn but I needed the real deal, too!

As time went on I realised I had a problem when I stayed up later and later watching smut and struggling to make it into work.

I found myself lapping up all the different types... threesomes, lesbian, anal... you name it.

Then over the years, you can kind of become desensitised to the usual stuff you watch.

And I soon found myself searching for more hardcore material... that was rougher, more degrading, with more people involved.

During work I'd always try to meet my boyfriend at lunch time for a quickie, until we broke up.

Then I turned to the likes of Tinder to get my fix of naughty one night stands. I don't really care if it makes me sound bad or anything...no-strings, wild, uninhibited sex with a stranger is just so hot!

I'm always careful and use protection and have regular check-ups to make sure I'm STD free, so I don't see any problem with it.

I hated my job at the call centre and I often phoned in sick to spend the day having sex or watching porn.

It's a much better way to pass your time!

Eventually I found myself looking up porn at work and I got caught out. Then I knew I had to leave my job.

When I was talking to customers all I could think about was shagging and I'm sure my conversations must have been littered with inappropriate innuendos!

Now I'm free to pleasure myself all day and meet up with any hot guys I see online. I'm young and having fun.

My best friend has urged me to get help as she read that compulsive sexual behaviour can sometimes be a way to escape feelings of depression, anxiety, loneliness and stress.

But I honestly just think I really enjoy sex!

However, I know I need to get it under control, simply because I need a job to pay the bills!

I have even considered becoming an escort as it combines my two main needs – money and sex!

BUSTY Becky Dee admitted that she loves to dress to impress – with several suitcases full of kinky outfits.

The Cardiff cracker, 24, lifted the lid on her fetish for racy bedroom attire after she discussed how important it is to make an effort to look good.

By JACK MOTTERSHEAD
jack@sundaysport.co.uk

The 34DD babe went on to give any hopeful lads out there some advice, after she revealed that there's nothing sexier than when a guy returns the favour.

But Becky is still clearly happy to go naked, too, as she shows off her amazing body in these pictures – wearing nothing but one of her favourite THONGS.

She said: "I think what we wear is really important.

"I like being with a bloke whose charming and makes the effort to look good.

"The same goes for me though, I have a few kinky outfits – and three suitcases full of sexy underwear that always gets a guy excited."

The busty brunette also spilled the beans on how she likes to take things further after she admitted she has a bit of a DOMINATRIX side.

Becky added: "I've also got some dominatrix stuff made of skintight latex.

"And a very naughty maid's uniform – it's for when I'm feeling even MORE dirty and adventurous."

Ali's on fire to show off tongue skill

EX On The Beach babe Ali Drew says she is GAGGING for it – and wants to show blokes her TONGUE skills!

The busty brunette opened up on her new love of life now that she's single and invited any budding lads out there to chat her up.

The reality TV scorcher flirted with Vicky Pattison's ex Stephen Bear on the show – but insisted she wouldn't have sex on TV herself, unlike her fellow cast members.

Ali said: "During filming there were quite a few people who slept together – none of that got shown.

"I'm 100 per cent single though now, so don't be shy about saying 'hello' boys!

"But remember, a man needs to be confident, not arrogant."

Ali was also quick to boast of her own special skills to impress the lads – which involved using her talented tongue for her party trick.

She added: "I love doing my fire-eating act and I know it would be more entertaining to do my show for a guy in a bikini."

You gotta laugh!

I called 999 and said: "Two girls are fighting over me." "OK," she paused: "Well what's the problem?" "The fat one's winning."

Up the dumb... no harm done!

THICK people have better SEX because they worry less about their performance in the sack.

A new study shows 'stupid' folk have better bonks – which might explain why TOWIE's Joey Essex is such a hit with the ladies!

The research found that the less a person worries about how well they perform, or how satisfied their lover is, the more they enjoy it.

And it revealed that people who don't overthink things are more likely to express themselves while getting down and dirty.

The study also advised men to stop fretting about the size of their manhood – confirming the old 'size doesn't matter' phrase.

Sex therapist Christoph Ahler, author of the report, said: "Just about any penis can cause stimulation."

GEMMA'S LOVELY JUBBLIES!

BREAST OF THE REST: Gem tops buster list

By SAM WALKER
samw@sundaysport.co.uk

BUSTY Gemma Merna has been handed a booby prize – after being named as having soap land's top TITS.

The shirt-popping blonde isn't afraid to show off her massive pair and can often be found flashing plenty of flesh in a boob-baring frock on nights out.

So it's no surprise that our readers have named the former Hollyoaks babe as Breast Actress in a saucy poll of TV tottie.

Manchester-born Gemma, 31, may have left the Channel 4 series last year but she still came top of the survey.

And she was closely followed by Coronation Street's Catherine Tyldesley, 32, and Brooke Vincent, 23, who also made the top four – along with Emmerdale star Natalie Anderson, 33.

A source said: "Gemma is proud of her acting assets and isn't shy about it. She is not a girl who needs a reason to celebrate, but now she has TWO. And what a pair!"

Gemma had played the part of feisty Carmel McQueen since 2006 before the character was killed off in a train explosion in November.

She is currently taking time off and was recently snapped sunning herself in a bikini in Dubai with Hollyoaks pal Jennifer Metcalfe.

A source added: "It's surprising that Jen didn't make the list, she has an amazing body, too.

"But Gemma clearly has what the public want. Two of them!

Weekend Sport POSTER BABE

MICA

ByJACK MOTTERSHEAD jack@sundaysport.co.uk

SEXY Mica Martinez has spilled the beans on her kinky fetish for outdoor shagging.

The busty babe, 24 says the thought of being caught mid-bonk is a huge turn-on and revealed that doing it under a bridge in London was mind-blowing.

The tattooed stunna has stripped down to just her shoes in these saucy snaps – giving an idea at what passers-by might expect to see if they caught her on the job.

She said: "Getting frisky outdoors is a lot more dangerous and a lot more fun. I find the thrill of it really exciting.

Control

"I did it under a bridge near Staples Corner in London. I couldn't stop myself. There were loads of cars driving past but the thought of people seeing made it an even bigger turn-on."

The East London born babe, who boasts a whopping 32D rack went on to admit she always gets what she wants.

She added: "I can be a bit of a dominatrix at times. I love to have all the power and control. Just having a guy do what you want, where you want is my favourite."

MOTORS WITH THE PURPLE HELMET

LEXUS SC430
(2002, £9,995)

TO say this is a Marmite car is a bit like saying Jack the Ripper was a bit naughty.

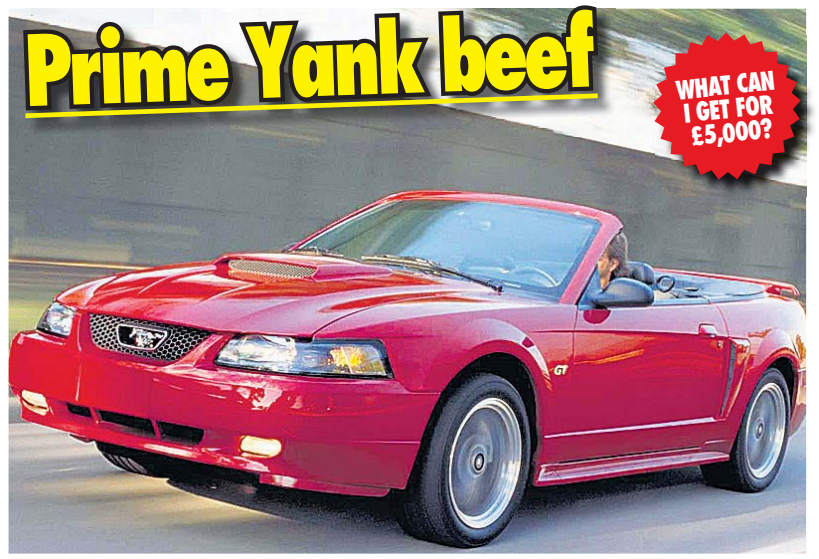
For those who love it, the Lexus SC430 oozes luxury and represents as a genuine alternative to the Mercedes SL.

There's a folding hardtop, and it's also properly quick – a 4.3 litre petrol engine doing 0-60mph in a very tidy 6.4 seconds.

There is, though, that bulbous front end – styling which won't please everyone.

Meanwhile, lots of owners have complained about the harsh ride quality which is no good whatsoever for pogoing over speed bumps.

Moral of the story – don't by an early model with run-flat tyres.



FORD MUSTANG 4.6 V8 CONVERTIBLE
(1998, £4,800)

YOUR petrolhead mates might accuse you of having a mid-life crisis but if you ask us, this prime bit of Yank beef is tasty and a bit of a bargain.

It'll be crap around corners, it won't keep up with a Ford Fiesta ST and the styling is Mustang at its most sedate.

But that monstrous 4.6 litre V8 engine will still chuck out some bark, and there's around 225bhp to play with.

It's not for the faint-hearted and you can expect a hefty fuel bill and a few arse-twitching moments when the back end loses it around a bend!

FIAT TIPO
(1990, £200)

FIAT has just announced that they're reviving their old Tipo model.

And let's hope the new one fares better than the old version, because thanks to iffy build quality and the design panache of a skip, there's virtually none left on UK roads.

Instead, they're most commonly to be found in scrap yards.

At the time the Tipo was first released in 1988, up until the time it was phased out in 1995, it was actually considered quite a decent little motor, boasting loads of engine choices along with good space and practicality.

The pick of the bunch was a 2.0 litre hot-hatch called Sedicivalvole (meaning 16-valve), which is now as rare as rocking-horse shit.

Ferrari hits the roid!

UH-OH – Ferrari's F12 Berlinetta has been at the 'roids!

When it debuted last year few thought a road-going race car could get much more extreme, with its 6.3-litre V12 engine producing a snarling 730bhp.

But those Maranello madmen have only made their little beast even more mental, giving it an aggressive new look, wider front wheels and a shitload more downforce, which teases you to give it the full-blown beans.

This new special edition is called the F12TDF. In case you're wondering, that's a homage to the Tour de France, the endurance road race that Ferrari dominated in the 1950s and 60s, particularly with the 1956 250 GT Berlinetta – so worry not, it's not about two-wheeled twats in Lycra.

A Ferrari spokesman tells the Purple Helmet: "It was a race that rewarded cars that combined maximum performance with the driveability and ease of use that enabled the competitors to race for hundreds of kilometres a day over fast, tortuous roads and on circuits.

"The F12TDF is the ultimate expression of the concept of an extreme road car that is equally at home on the track, and just 799 will be built."

So, Ferrari have taken the engine from the F12 and given it an extra 50bhp, taking it to 780bhp. Lateral acceleration in corners is boosted thanks to an eight per cent increase in the ratio of the front to rear tyres.

Meanwhile, a radical redesign of the bodywork, interior, engine, transmission and running gear, along with the abundant use of carbon-fibre inside and out, has slashed 110 kg off the car's overall weight.

All of this means it's quick – really, really fking quick – doing 0-62mph in just 2.9 seconds and 124mph in 7.9 seconds.

Aerodynamics are also cutting edge – downforce is 230 kg at 200 km/h, which is an impressive 107 kg more than the F12.

It also makes the TDF look more American muscle car than any other Ferrari in yonks, which we like a lot. Want one!

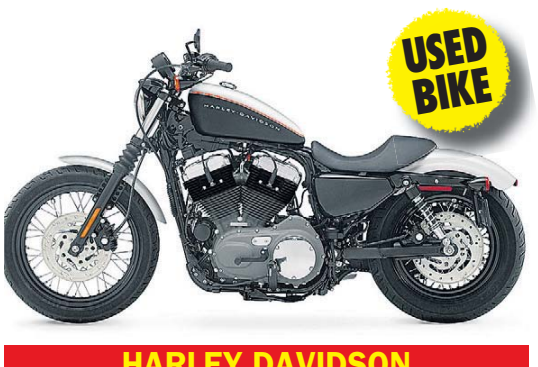
HONDA BULLDOG
(£5,000 est)

WHEN the Honda Bulldog concept bike was unveiled back in March this year, it's fair to say it had its detractors.

But that bold new look actually won a lot of admirers – particularly amongst the beardy hipster crew – and now word on the street is that it's actually being put into production.

And if you ask us, that's a very good thing indeed and a potential masterstroke from Honda, a manufacturer often associated with bland and boring bikes.

It'll apparently have a 400cc engine, making it appealing to newbies, and the carrier racks, storage compartments and chunky, protective engine bars mean it could be all the motorcycle you'd ever need.



HARLEY DAVIDSON XL1200 SPORTSTER
(2006, £3,500)

BUYING a Harley, prepare for three things – a vibrating bottom from that agricultural engine, having to do lots of cleaning, and enjoying low depreciation costs.

With a XL Sportster Custom this age you can also enjoy low running costs, because it doesn't need expensive valve clearance servicing, which can easily set you back £500 when it reaches 30,000 miles.

It's not quick – there's only 65bhp on tap from the V Twin engine, and sportsbike riders will scoff.

But it handles better than most will give it credit for, the ride is decent, and if you like Harleys this is a very decent introduction into the world of Milwaukee cruisers.

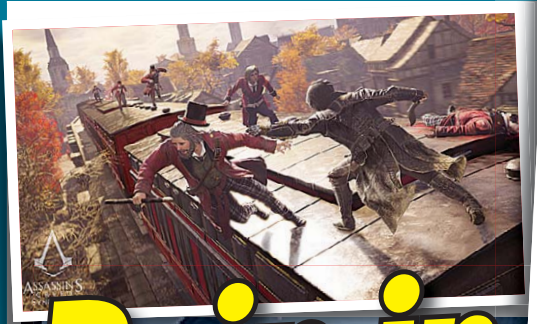
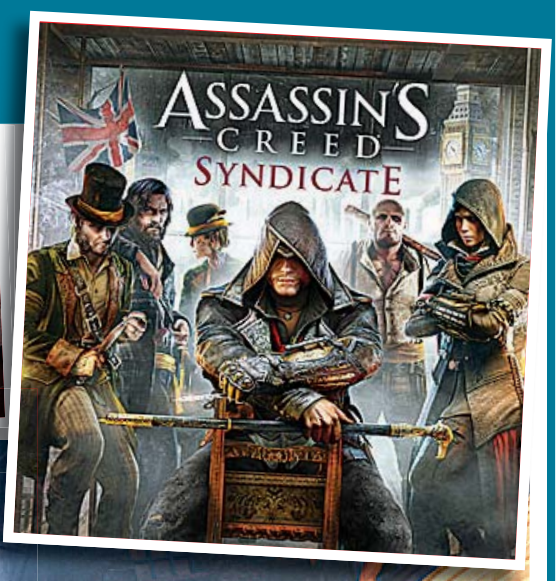
GAMES





Pain in the Ass

ASSASSIN'S CREED SYNDICATE (PS4, Xbox One) ★★★

THIS latest edition in the massive Assassins Creed franchise is set right in the heart of London.

It would, therefore, come as no surprise if gamers find themselves spending half the time marvelling at the capital's sights recreated in a Victorian era form.

Syndicate tells the tale of twins Jacob and Evie Frye – a pair of assassins rebelling against their elders and the general way of life in London back in 1868.

Both characters have a distinct combat style – Evie is nimble and quick while her bro is slower but more powerful.

The game's events span through seven London boroughs on a map that's roughly 30% larger than Unity's.

Some of these areas, such as Westminster and Waterloo station, are still very familiar.

As with Assassin's Creed Unity, the levels of poverty change as you move around the city, giving an indication of which parts of London you're in without having to check the map.

A major part of Syndicate is how the traversal has evolved. It builds on previous games by adding new features, such as a grapple hook to launch yourself to heights a lot faster.

Then there are carriages. A major part of getting around in the game is that you can hijack horse and carriages GTA-style, kicking their drivers off to take them as your own.

Stealth has become, more than ever, key in the way you tackle missions. Enemies are a lot quicker to spot and hunt you down, meaning that you'll need to watch where and when you make your move.

And when you do find yourself facing a pack of police officers – or the Blighters as they're called – you'll quickly realise that combat has been ramped up an extra notch.

Enemies now have a level indicator above their heads, which will let you know just how difficult they'll be to tackle head-on.

The fact that you upgrade your character's own level has its benefits and downsides.

On one hand you get to watch your assassin develop, but be prepared to put in the hours to reach a standard where you can competently battle the hardest missions.

BOOKS With JON WISE

TOP GEAR DRIVES OF A LIFETIME* by Dan Read (BBC Books) ★★★★

IT'S quite probable you will NEVER get to drive a supercar up a ski slope, or anywhere else for that matter, since it's only the likes of Top Gear presenters who could afford a bloody supercar.

It's also unlikely that you'll want to test bulldozers in the arctic or drive up the side of active volcanoes. That's all very exciting and entertaining, much like the BBC show is...or certainly was.

But 'out-there' stunts are not the main point of this glossy coffee table number from Top Gear Magazine's ace writer Read.

When you've soaked up the experiences and taken in the tips and detail from the places where they've scorched the tarmac, you'll appreciate that maybe there's a bit more to a holiday than two weeks getting pissed in the Canaries, and that maybe proper adventure in something you know and love – a motor – isn't just the stuff of dreams.

You too could have a drive of a lifetime.

OVER THE TOP AND BACK* by Tom Jones (Michael Joseph) ★★★★

SOME people are giving this autobiog of living legend Tom Jones a bit of a pasting. On his behalf may I just say, "They can go f* themselves."

Were they expecting some deep philosophical classic? Actually, the philosophy is there – Sir Tom's can be summed up with the words "work bloody hard" and "enjoy it".

You might think you know the story of the man born into a Welsh mining family with a great voice who got his break and stormed to fame in the 60s.

It wasn't quite that easy. With a wife and kid to support when he was just 16, he had to work building sites by day and play the clubs at night.

You've heard his voice, so you know it wouldn't have taken long for him to be discovered. But from then on his life includes a blizzard of names that form a Who's Who of the music scene. There's barely a legend he hasn't met.

But the feeling you come away with is of a down-to-earth working-class hero who likes a pint. You'll like him.

DVD

SAN ANDREAS* (12) ★★

THE San Andreas Fault finally gives, triggering a magnitude nine quake in California. A search and rescue helicopter pilot and his estranged wife race to save their only daughter.

The pilot is played by Dwayne Johnson, a man with the acting ability of a piece of cheese found at the back of the fridge four days before payday.

TREMORS 5: BLOODLINES* (15) ★★★

THE stakes are raised for survivalist Burt Gummer in his most dangerous monster hunt yet when he's hired to capture a deadly Assblaster in South Africa.

This is a stupidly shit movie but nevertheless strangely entertaining. Deffo worth wasting an hour or so on.

SURVIVOR* (12) ★★★

WITH Milla Jovovich and Pierce Brosnan, Survivor is a thriller about State Department employee Kate Abbott, newly posted in the U.S. embassy in London.

I'll watch anything with Jovovich in, as even if it has a 12 rating, she'll be filmed in something skimpy at some stage, guaranteed.

BLUNT FORCE

STRAPPED in? Good. You're just about ready for a cinematic ride of a lifetime!

Every scene in Sicario, the new film by Denis Villeneuve, is better than the last – it is, in its own twisted way, one of the best movies of the year.

Emily Blunt plays rookie FBI agent Kate Macer, an idealistic specialist in extraction, who we find as she is just about to drive head-first into a seemingly peaceful home in Phoenix, Arizona.

The home belongs to a cartel boss. There are ritualistically murdered dead bodies hidden in the basement and an explosion will soon kill two members of her team.

And this is only the first scene. Events will escalate!

Macer is approached by Josh Brolin's Matt Graver, the shadowy man assigned to bring those behind the attack to justice.

He enlists her to accompany him on a covert mission to El Paso, Texas, where they are joined by an even murkier character, Benicio del Toro's Alejandro.

The first time we really notice Alejendro is when he responds to Macer's enthusiastic questions about the operation, which has turned into an extraction of a high-value target who belongs to the Sonora Cartel from Juarez, Mexico, and not El Paso after all.

Stealthy

And that brings us to the first outstanding sequence in the film – the agents enter Mexico in a convoy of indistinguishable black SUVs, both stealthy and conspicuous in the vast desert.

Villeneuve shoots these scenes with great precision, utilising the slow-burn approach that Breaking Bad perfected.

The resulting scene is brutal and shockingly violent.

We get to understand our characters for the first time – Blunt is our surrogate, Brolin is the unpredictable wildcard, and del Toro the sage guiding them.

Sicario is part drug thriller, part crime saga, but more than anything else, it is a tale of revenge – and an must for anyone who likes films that aren't about bloody superheroes.

BREAST SCENES IN MOVIE HISTORY

IF there's one thing 1980s movies taught kids, it's that if you invade a girl's privacy or sneak a peek of her tufty bits while she isn't looking, it is perfectly OK if you're with your friends.

So Revenge of the Nerds is a movie that takes place in a time in which kids were either a "jock" or a "nerd".

Nerds looked like your grandad when he tries to dress up and jocks hated the idea of being "smart". Nobody was happy. But there's a scene where the nerds sneak into the dorms inhabited by some pretty ladies and proceed to set up hidden cameras.

All very wrong, but you'll get a chubb on at the sight of the topless blonde or the flash of fine lower foliage.

A much under-appreciated movie well worth a watch if you can dig it out.

XXX DVD of the week

WHEN curvy Czech lovely Fooka wrote home to tell her gran about enjoying Big Ben she omitted to tell her that Ben was a bloke with a massive British cock!

Travelling Czechs is a brilliant travelogue - a ck-umentary, if you will - that follows the lovely Fooka and her pert Prague pals on a trip to the UK.

They might not get to see all the sights but they certainly get plenty of meat up 'em abd when there's no c to be had they seem quite content to f each other!

This is a BRILLIANT DVD with some of the best and most convincing sex we've seen in a long time. The brown love scenes are particularly striking... hard and deep and it's clear the girls are really loving it! If you only buy on hardcore R18 DVD this year make sure this is the one.

Welcome to the world famous Sport Agony page! No other newspaper's Agony Aunts can offer the level of advice or experience than our own Agony Angels! This week Nickie Ann has been reading your letters. Here's her advice, folks...

Dear Nickie,

I'VE been married for three years and for the past six months my wife has been having an affair.

Actually, though, I don't mind as I love watching her being fked by another guy.

It all started when I came home from work early and couldn't find the wife downstairs. I went upstairs expecting her to be cleaning or something but, as my head rose to landing level, I glanced in through the partly-open door of our bedroom.

I got the shock of my life when I saw her legs dangling over the edge of the bed in stockings and stilettos. Her legs were spread wide and there was a hairy-arsed bloke pumping into her.

They couldn't see me and I watched for quite a while ad the thing was, I got a steaming hard-on. As they swapped positions and she got on top, I started to gently wank myself.

As I looked on the guy turned my wife over and started to tease her moist fanny with the tip of his prick, which was at least eight inches in length.

I gave little thought to the repercussions of what was going on at the time as I was enjoying it so much. My missus was groaning and writhing in ecstasy as this bloke kept pumping away at her.

She cried out, "fk me, fk me hard" just like she does when we make love.

As it happened she came to an orgasm just as I shot my load. I was able to clean up my mess and slip out of the house unnoticed but I did confront her later. There was no row as I said I'd enjoyed it and she said that I could watch every week if I wanted. This has been going on for a while and I'm wondering if I'm a bit of a pervert.

CD, Bristol

Nickie says...

NOT at all, everybody seems to be enjoying themselves.

Dear Nickie,

A FEW weeks ago I got chatting to a blonde in the pub and we went back to her place.

She led me to the bedroom, stripped me off and asked if she could tie me to the bed.

After a sex show in which she finger-fked herself to orgasm she guided my dick into her sopping vagina.

About 10 minutes later I started to feel very sleepy, which was strange as I knew I wasn't pissed.

I can't remember much about the sex ,although I do get the odd flashback of her sucking my length and forcing my cock in to her arse.

I woke up the next day and managed to untie myself and went home. I thought I'd have some explaining to do but when I got in my girlfriend dumped me.

Then I realised that I'd been out for two days, not a night. This bird must have drugged me. Should I tell my girlfriend what happened?

NP, Teesside

Nickie says...

I DON'T think that will help you. You slept with another woman, so she was right to dump you.

Dear Nickie,

I'M a 23-year-old sales rep and my work means that I have to travel all over the country.

Normally I stay in a Travelodge or somewhere like that but last week I decided to sleep in a layby overnight.

I was about to nod off when a woman knocked on the window. I opened the door and she climbed in, slipping off her coat to reveal that she was stark naked underneath.

She unzipped my fly and eased out my old man and in no time she was sucking me off. After I spurted in her gob she popped her coat back on, got out the car and said: "Same time next week?"

It turns out to be a local dogging site. Should I go back?

TH, Lancashire

Nickie says...

ONLY if you don't mind being watched.

Lonely heart up for my big part

Letter of the day

Dear Nickie,

I RECENTLY answered a lonely hearts e-mail advert from a middle-aged housewife who was looking for a well-endowed young man.

After getting a cheeky reply I arranged for her to visit me at my flat and she arrived wearing a long coat and told me her visit was to make sure that I was as well hung as I had claimed.

Since I am about nine inches when erect I was confident of fulfilling her needs.

Unzipping my fly, she pulled out my semi-hard dick and rubbing it gently she told me that it was much thicker than her husband's.

She took off her coat, revealing a black basque with her massive brown-nippled breasts spilling out over the top.

By then my cock had grown to its full length and she knelt on the rug in front of me and began licking and teasing the tip of my bellend with her hot tongue.

Sucking

She enveloped my whole shaft while sucking expertly and tickling my ballbag and bumhole.

She brought me to the brink of shooting down her throat and then suddenly stopped and pulled her head away. It was a right tease and I found myself begging for her to let me give her one.

She told me she would save that for another time but she did me the favour of pulling me off, and slipped her hand into her knickers to flick furiously as I came copiously all over the living room carpet.

Afterwards, she dressed herself to leave but said she was more than happy with my size and could hardly wait for me to visit her at her house that weekend.

The day came and when I arrived I was amazed when her husband opened the door. He told me his wife was waiting for me and that I must give them a few minutes to get ready.

I'll never forget the sight that greeted me when they called me upstairs. There was his wife kneeling on a chair in a mini-dress with stockings and sussies and her gloriously round arse in the air.

Her massive tits were swinging to and fro as she gorged herself on her husband's prick.

He called me over, tugging up his wife's dress to reveal her tiny panties.

As I approached she started to rock her arse and pull on my cock.

I slipped her knickers down and eased myself in to her dripping fanny, making her yell out in ecstasy.

She couldn't get enough and kept shouting out but her screams were muffled by her husband's dick.

When he finally came the sight was too much for me and I flooded into her.

Afterwards we said our goodbyes. Now she's e-mailed me again asking if I have a friend I can take with me next time.

She said she'd make sure her husband was on the nightshift.

I fancy the idea but do you think I should see her behind her husband's back?

BT, Cambs

Nickie says...

HE doesn't seem to mind his wife being shagged by another man, but you'd be well advised to tread carefully.

Is there trouble in storeroom?

Dear Nickie,

I'M a 38-year-old single man working shifts at a factory.

The other week one of the cleaners sidled up an said she'd heard about me from the other girls.

She was about 19 with tits that would make any man happy, never mind a 38-year-old one. So you can imagine my surprise when she dragged me into the toilets and asked me for a look.

"A look at what?" I asked.

"Your cock," she said. "I've heard it's quite an impressive specimen."

This seemed too good to be true but I did as I was asked. She took me eagerly in her hands and began tossing me off.

Sensing I was about to come she stopped and said not to waste it. She ripped open the poppers on her overalls and pulled up her bra to expose her gloriously round and beautiful tits.

She squeezed them together and told me to stick it in there. Needless to say it wasn't long before I was spurting all over them.

Two nights later I bumped into her again and she was just as keen to whip out my dick once more. This time, though, I told her I wanted more an she was only too pleased to oblige.

We went into one of the storerooms where she stripped and leaned over a pile of boxes with her arse in the air.

I rammed my dick home into her slippery love-hole and shagged her silly. I seemed to be able to go on for ever while she panted from one orgasm to the next.

This has now become a regular event and we've been working our way round the factory having it off in as many different rooms as we can.

But my boss is getting suspicious. Can I be sacked if he finds out?

BR, East Midlands

Nickie says...

IF you're doing it in work time, yes. But you're a single fella, so why don't you just take her home – it'll be a lot safer?

LEPPARD'S GOT IT LICKED

DEF LEPPARD* by Def Leppard ★★★★★

THIS month sees the long awaited return of Sheffield rock gods Def Leppard with their eponymous 12th album.

The band have had a seven-year time-out since 2008's Songs From The Sparkle Lounge.

So…has that time been time well spent?

The answer is a resounding YES!

Def Leppard's latest long player will have rock fans whipped into a Hysteria.

It combines all the band's best attributes. Let's Go kicks things off.

Its Leppard's ode to the joy of playing live – the lights, the mayhem, the whole carnival – which is fitting for one of the world's hardest touring bands.

It's sure to resonate with every fan who has ever experienced their spectacular live show.

This is followed by Dangerous – a chunk of textbook Leppard. The muted opening riff had the hairs on the back of my neck standing on end. This is hard rock at its best. Next up, Man Enough slows things down with an injection of white funk and a walking bass line that gives Queen's Another One Bites The Dust a run for its money.

Next up, We Belong. The boys remind us of that love ballad wizardry that kept When Love And Hate Collide at the top end of the charts for so long in the mid-90s.

Elsewhere, Sea Of Love, is a stadium-ready tune packed with blues riffery. This'll have your head swivelling in approval.

The killer tracks just keep on coming. All Time High, Broke 'n' Broken Hearted and Forever Young will give you a genuine feeling of not giving a fk and leave you yearning for a time when rock ruled and 'politically correct' meant remembering to wash your hands after taking a piss.

As the bell for last orders rings, there's just enough time for Wings Of An Angel and Blind Faith to teach us what rock 'n' roll soul is all about.

This is ROCK music for ROCKERS. Strap in and prepare for pure joy – Def Leppard are back!

CATCH THEM LIVE!

THE brilliant Def Leppard will be hitting the tarmac to promote their amazing new album this December – and they'll be bringing some pretty impressive support, too!

Fellow rock legends Whitesnake will be joint-headlining with them, along with Black Star Riders – the bona fide reincarnation of the great Thin Lizzy!

This is gonna be THE tour of the year so don't delay buying tickets – this one will sell out really fast! Make sure you catch 'em on the following dates…

DEC 7 – Odyssey, Belfast, Northern Ireland
DEC 9 – Metro Radio Arena, Newcastle
DEC 10 – SSE Hydro, Glasgow
DEC 12 – Genting Arena, Birmingham
DEC 13 – Capital FM Arena, Nottingham
DEC 15 – M.E.N Arena, Manchester
DEC 16 – Motorpoint Arena, Cardiff
DEC 18 – SSE Arena Wembley, London
DEC 19 – Motorpoint Arena , Sheffield

SOUL SPHERE* by Born of Osiris ★★★★★

ON the burgeoning deathcore scene it's all about who's got the most technical riffs and who can muster the most intricate melodies.

Competition is stiff – which is great for us fans!

Chicago's Born of Osiris have genuinely raised the bar with their latest album Soul Sphere.

It's a rich musical tapestry to say the least, packed with blast-beat drums, death metal stylings, jazz noodlings and huge choruses.

They also make excellent use of synthesizers. There are some great techno moments on here that give Born of Osiris an extra edge on many of their contemporaries. Check out The Other Half of Me, which is availaible for a listen on the band's Facebook page – ut prepare to have your mind blown!

Elsewhere on the album, Throw Me In The Jungle brings all of the above elements together for what is perhaps the album's most accessible track for the broader audience. It's got the heavy riffs, jazz scales and insane percussion, but it's also got a fantastic emo chorus which will no doubt burrow in through your ears and lay eggs in your brain.

We may be witnessing the next evolutionary cycle in extreme music! The album's artwork is unreal, too!

XENO* by Crossfaith ★★★★

JAPAN'S always been at the forefront of electronics. They also like their heavy music.

Osaka band Crossfaith combine the two of these things nicely.

They're a metalcore band who like to inject electro beats, synths and all sorts of effects and interesting mechanical noises into their music. The result on Xeno, their fourth album, makes for very interesting listening. The album's opener System X sounds like something off an Ibiza compilation, with wild synths, hand claps and cool programmed beats. But it's not long before the crushing guitar riffs and real percussion come crashing into the fore with the album's title track – a killer track with a brilliant and infectious chorus.

There's plenty more quality music here, too. One of my faves is Devil's Party, as catchy a tune as you'll hear this year.

Heavy, unrelenting and with an ice cool futuristic twist, this is state-of-the-art metalcore at its best! CHECK OUT THE MUSIC COLUMN NEXT WEEK FOR CROSSFAITH TOUR NEWS!

FRIDAY FRANCOME

THE GREATEST JOCKEY'S EXCLUSIVE Weekend Sport COLUMN

HARSH CALL ON YOUNG GINGER

BIG LOSS: Donald McCain

RACEHORSE owners have always been a funny lot but the more time passes they become not-so-much "funny ha-ha" as "funny peculiar".

My theory about the reasons why is an unpleasant one to confront for someone like me who came from the square root of bugger all but who, mercifully, no longer has to check the price tags in the shops if he wants to buy something.

But, basically, it is "old money good, new money bad".

Riding for toffs as a snotty-nosed teenager never held the slightest fear for me. I wasn't daunted because I've yet to meet someone, rich or poor, whose shit stinks of lavender. We are basically all the same.

Except in attitude.

When I started, owners, with very few exceptions, were Lord This or Viscount That or The Duke Of T'Other.

Owning racehorses was a hobby, nothing more. It gave them an excuse for a nice day out. They were invariably generous with it.

There is a common practice at the Cheltenham Festival whereby if you ride a winner you collect a brown envelope along with the ritual slaps on the back.

"That's for your trouble, young Francome," they would say, and no questions asked, not even by the taxman because you can't tarnish a gift with the unhealthy stains of income tax or VAT. The said envelopes were always stuffed fuller than a foie gras goose with £50 notes.

It was, of course, no skin off the owners' noses because if you have a Festival winner you have always backed it.

I had my Bob Dylan moment (The Times They Are A'Changing) towards the end of my career.

I rode a winner for a nouveau owner whose name I do remember but for diplomacy I will choose to forget right now and he handed me £150.

At that time it was marginally less than twice the riding fee. I looked him up and down, smiled, and handed it back, saying "there you go, you obviously need it more than I do".

Success

And frivolous and amusing as that tale may be, it was symbolic of the new attitude among owners. As soon as businessmen get rich they want the trappings of their wealth. Along with the yacht, the mansion and the place in the sun comes a string of racehorses.

But because their business affairs have taught them to expect success as a given, they demand the same from their racecourse interests.

The problem is you can't predict a creature as bright as a racehorse like you can a stock market and even if you thought you had mastered the art I am convinced the four-legged buggers would down tools just to prove you wrong.

They are really that contrary.

Now, I don't know owners Paul or Clare Rooney who this week took away 50 horses from Donald McCain's yard in Cheshire.

Nor how they made their cash, good luck to them.

Young Ginger, as I like to refer to him in deference to his wonderful, late old man, was busy preparing a live Fred Winter Hurdle entrant, Starchitect, for them alongside two well-fancied Grand National hopes, Kruzlinin and The Last Samurai.

The record shows McCain trained 98 winners last season, 40 of which were owned by the Rooneys. That's just over 40 per cent of his personal tally. And on average nine out of 10 of their nags won a race.

That's a more than fair return and one which made them the fourth winning-most owners in Britain.

I'm sure the owners had their reasons.

Despite losing well over a third of his stock Young Ginger has vowed to save the jobs of as many of his staff as possible.

Also, he has accepted the Rooneys' decision with a good grace that will have Old Ginger spinning in the crypt.

If dad had been told his owners were taking away 50 inmates he would have opened the stable doors and said: "Pick them up off Southport beach."

Ginger had a superiority complex that few can carry off as well as he did.

In his mind, he employed everyone in racing, not the other way round.

He once bawled me out in front of aowners for finishing second on a horse he believed should have won. That thing wouldn't have won with a furlong start.

I got off and Ginger roared: "You're fing hopeless, Francome. You'll never ride for me again."

I replied: "Oh. I better pack it in, then."

I don't think he liked me, finding me too clever by half. But even though he was the original old bastard in the term "cantankerous old bastard," I had a healthy respect for him.

I've less respect for tomorrow's feast, Champions Day at Ascot. Sandwiched neatly between the Arc meeting and the Breeders' Cup, it has all the relevance of Nick Clegg in . . . well, just Nick Clegg, really.

Naked

It's an early kick-off for telly race fans with the first at 12.45 and well done to Channel 4 for elbowing Come Dine With Me and showing all six races.

The bookies need no reminding how well Frankie Dettori rides this course and I expect him to have a few more winners with at least two out of these three triumphing: FLYING OFFICER (12.45), JOURNEY (1.55) and RIBBONS (3.05).

Finally, a pair of naked lesbians broke into our house today and started wrestling my girlfriend while she was in the bath.

I tried to help but I could only knock one out.

Be lucky.

GOLDEN GOL ON CLASSIC MISSION

HITMAN: Golovkin

Gennady promises bout to remember at Garden

WRECKING machine Gennady Golovkin could be in the most exciting middleweight fight since Marvin Hagler beat Tommy Hearns.

The Kazakh's trainer Abel Sanchez believes his man's world title defence against another KO king David Lemieux at New York's Madison Square Garden has the same licence to thrill.

Hagler's won a breathless battle against Hearns more than 30 years ago, and Golovkin is now feared just like Marvelous Marvin was back in his pomp.

Unbeaten Golovkin has KO'd 30 of his 33 victims, while Lemieux can also shoot from the hip — 31 of his 34 have come inside the distance.

Hagler v Hearns was a brutal slugfest, and Sanchez said: "It might be best to go out there and be a Hagler-Hearns fight because that's what the fans are expecting.

Rounds

"And that's what Golovkin wants to provide. What is he always saying? He wants a drama show.

"I think it's going to be a throwback fight. It's going to be three or four rounds, and whoever lands the best shot wins.

"Obviously, I have to be confident what my guy is going to do. But for three or four rounds it could go either way. Both are big hitters."

Lemieux hasn't been impressed by the hype surrounding Golovkin who is an understandable favourite and the most feared man in boxing.

The Canadian, who is promoted by Oscar de la Hoya, has lost twice and his last opponent Hassan N'Dam N'Jikam survived 12 rounds before losing on points despite hitting the floor FOUR TIMES.

Lemieux, 26, said: "What I have done with the degree of the fight and the intensity for this fight, I know I have to be better than I was for N'Dam.

"Bernard Hopkins and Oscar De La Hoya are letting me do what I need to do. I have a great team around me and they feel very confident in my abilities.

"I am aware of his record but I am also aware of who I am and what I can bring to the table. My concern is the present and making sure I win on Oct. 17

"I am going to be a lion in there. Nothing is going to be in my way.

"It is kind of like David and Goliath. Everyone is impressed on this big GGG, he is impressive and talented but there is also David who is making a lot of noise.

"I know what I am going up against and I am going in with a nice package to deliver to Golovkin."

It should thrill, but Golovkin to win inside four rounds looks on.

KAL'S READY TO BRUM-BLE!

KAL YAFAI believes winning the British super-flyweight strap will kick off an avalanche of titles.

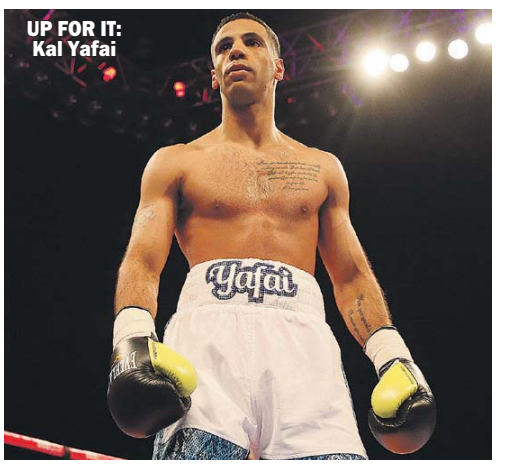
He meets Yorkshireman Jason Cunningham for the vacant crown in hometown Birmingham on Saturday, and confident of his 17th straight win.

"It is a proud moment for me to be fighting for the British title," said unbeaten Brummie Yafai.

"I have won the Commonwealth title last year and I want to win the British as well before moving on to try and achieve world honours. It will be a very big moment when I win that title.

"I have seen quite a bit of Jason Cunningham in the last eight weeks or so. My trainers have studied him and I leave it mostly down to them and they tell me what to do.

"I stayed behind to watch him in Leeds when we both fought on the same bill in September, so I know quite a bit."



UP FOR IT: Kal Yafai

COOK SETS UP TRIPLE TON HOPE

CRICKET: PAKISTAN v ENGLAND

ALASTAIR Cook has got his heart set on making a triple century against Pakistan in the first Test.

The England skipper finished day three in Abu Dhabi on an unbeaten 168 as the Three Lions closed on 290-3, replying to 523-8 declared.

Cook steadily built his score all day on a pitch that Phil Tufnell described as "the worst I've ever seen".

It looks like a strip of concrete and just about the only ball that moved all day was the one that took the edge of Moeen Ali's bat for 35. He was caught behind off Imran Khan, who was the pick of Pakistan's blunted attack.

Ian Bell scratched his way to 63 before falling to Wahab Riaz, who also took the late wicket of night watchman Mark Wood.

Cook's highest score in Tests is the 294 he made against India in 2011 when he was caught out on the boundary.

He doesn't want to make that mistake again, saying: "I'd take 295 tomorrow. I said if I ever got close to 294 again, I wouldn't get out caught at deep point. Not that it still bugs me or anything."

And the skipper agrees that there isn't a lot happening out in the middle.

He added: "It's been tough physically but I'm pleased to get through.

"It's a different style of cricket on these slow, low wickets and if you can be patient you can bat for long periods of time. Mahela Jayawardene is in our dressing room now and he was the master of it.

SCRATCHY: Bell

"At tea, he was at me to keep going and telling me to go through the day.

"I like to think I have developed against spin and I do think I can score aggressively when I need to.

"For the first 30-40 balls, they have men around the bat and you can't run down the pitch.

"You have to trust your defence. Ian Bell did that and got his rewards."

Considering that he loved making his runs slowly, Geoff Boycott is unhappy with the lack of any sort of competition between bat and ball in the game.

He said: "You can't sell this product to spectators.

"I used to commentate in Pakistan and the crowds were already dwindling because they like one-day cricket better.

"People won't give up time to watch this."

TOP KNOCK: Cook

Morgan in for Wales

RUGBY WORLD CUP

TYLER Morgan has been picked ahead of James Hook for Wales' quarter-final with South Africa tomorrow.

The twice-capped 20-year-old (pictured) comes into midfield where the Dragons have been hit by injuries.

Gethin Jenkins comes back into the side at loose-head prop, while Dan Lydiate will play in the back row.

George North will move from wing to centre as Alun Wyn Jones earns his 100th international cap.

Coach Warren Gatland admits that he didn't have a lot of options given that wing Liam Williams is also on the sidelines.

But he is confident that he's done the right thing in midfield and trusts the inexperienced Morgan to get the job done.

Gatland said: "Tyler had a tight hamstring last week so he wasn't in contention to play against Australia.

"If you look at the squad we've been 100% consistent with the selections of guys who were originally selected.

"We thought Tyler played very well against Fiji for a young 20-year-old and we're putting that faith in him to back him again. He's an out and out 13 and he's definitely a player for the future and it's a great opportunity for him."

TOUGH TASK: Bournemouth boss Eddie Howe

IN-FORM CITY CAN PICK OFF CHERRIES

MAN CITY v BOURNEMTH

★Man City have won 10 of their last 11 home games in the Premier League. The City faithful will be licking their lips on Saturday in anticipation of the arrival of Bournemouth.

The treatment table is getting crowded at City but Pellegrini can call on his captain Vincent Kompany who's expected to be fit.

There will be several key stars missing but you can't see Bournemouth doing anything at the Etihad. Eddie Howe's men can be deceiving, they have lots of possession but in truth do little with it.

They sit sixth in the league in terms of average possession but 15th in terms of shots per game.

Managers and coaches seem to be obsessed these days with possession and statistics. It is nonsense, I am more concerned with what the score is at the final whistle. Man City average the most shots with 20.6 and sit top of the league, Arsenal average 20 and sit second, need I write any more on the subject!

If Bournemouth try to play the beautiful game (they will) then one thing will happen they will get hammered. Howe can hold his head up high once more, tell the world he's got principles and that he never parked the bus but the end result will be he got nothing out of the game.

Get on City at 4/11 or the incredible price of 21/20 City to win HT and FT.

CHELSEA v ASTON VILLA

★Jose Mourinho will hardly be able to hide his delight at the prospect of being able to call upon Diego Costa once more.

His deputies have fallen short, Falcao on current form could not hit a cow's arse with a banjo. In his seven appearances he's managed an average of just one shot on goal per game – seven in total with four on target. Remy has not even managed a single shot on target in three appearances.

Chelsea have gone from a lethal predator to a poodle in the blink of an eye.

Normally so fast to hit teams on the break but of the 12 goals they've scored so far this season only one has come on the counter attack.

Chelsea are a team badly needing confidence but it is not all doom and gloom because they are playing Aston Villa.

The last three matches between these two at Stamford Bridge have resulted in three wins for Chelsea who have scored 13 and only conceded one. If Jose Mourinho could have picked a team to play he would have picked the Villa.

Three points are set to be banked today by Chelsea at 10/29 but if you want something bigger look at Chelsea to win HT and FT at 1/1 or Costa to score and Chelsea to win at 5/4.

WATFORD v ARSENAL

★The Gunners have won eight of their last 10 away matches in the Premier League and will surely make it nine from 11 here.

Sanchez, Walcott and Ozil have all started to fire and Arsenal look a dangerous outfit once more.

Consistency is the big problem because on their day Arsenal can beat anyone. Fans will be hoping they can deliver on a regular basis starting here at Watford.

One of the key players for the Gunners is unsung hero Francis Coquelin. While Sanchez, Walcott, Ozil and co grab the headlines Coquelin has been steady as a rock.

He is right up there with the best in the league in terms of tackling and passing accuracy. In his seven league games he's made 25 tackles and once he's won the ball he finds a team mate with the alarming accuracy of 91%.

One key statistic that is worthy of note he passes the ball forward 68% of time. This allows the Gunners to get going and quickly turn defence in to attack.

Take Arsenal to silence the home crowd at 4/7 or Sanchez to score and Arsenal to win at 9/4.

TALKING POINT

★Newcastle face Norwich this weekend, the Toon really should win but you can't bank on them these days.

It is a huge club but make no mistake they are very much in a relegation battle and unless they find a remedy soon they could easily drop in to the championship.

This tweet had me laughing so hard! @the_jizzle: When I die, I want @NUFC to be my pallbearers — so they can let me down one last time. #EPL #Relegation #NUFC

More bad news for Newcastle fans Tim Krul is ruled out long-term with injury. This was the fans' reaction;

@andrewwalton5: Oh dear?!! Looks like they will be relying on Darlow!! I liked Darlow, but he's not ready! #relegation #nufc #nffc

@robcarter35: And that's a huge nail in #nufc's coffin #relegation

Will Newcastle be relegated?

Sky Bet Championship SATURDAY'S CHAMPIONSHIP MATCH PREVIEWS

Birmingham v QPR

Saturday, 3pm kick-off

BIRMINGHAM hope to welcome back Andy Shinnie to face QPR.

The Scot has been on the sidelines since tweaking his hamstring three weeks ago.

Blues boss Gary Rowett: "He is going to train all this week, barring any problems over the next couple of days."

And there's good news about Demarai Gray, who limped off in the 2-0 win against Leeds.

Rowett added: "Dimmy obviously missed the England Under-20s games in Germany because his groin was so tight we just felt if he's have gone with them he would have pulled something serious."

Brentford v Rotherham

Saturday, 3pm kick-off

NEW Rotherham boss Neil Redfearn has vowed to fire the Millers up the table.

He says he has the mental toughness to turn things around at Millmoor.

Redfearn said: "One thing I've been as a player through my career, and going into management and coaching, is strong.

"I've always been mentally strong. Tough. Weaker people would have gone under.

"The best managers I've played for, and the things I've taken from them, is that they were always there for me.

"I'll be there for these players."

Burnley v Bolton

Saturday, 3pm kick-off

MICHAEL Duff has tipped his young defensive partner Michael Keane to hit the big time.

The Clarets' defence has been in decent form this season and the 37-year-old says a lot of that is down to the former Manchester United man.

He said: "Keano is going to be a top player, there's no doubt about that.

"He's got all the attributes to go where he wants. That may be an over-used saying but I think he genuinely can.

"I think we've looked pretty good and we've been a little bit unlucky we've not kept more clean sheets."

Ipswich v Huddersfield

Saturday, 3pm kick-off

IPSWICH'S hopes of promotion have taken a blow with the loss of Ryan Fraser to a knee ligament injury.

The 21-year-old will be out for at least two months after making a big impact on loan from Ipswich.

Tractor Boys physio Matt Byard said: "Ryan was training when he suffered a non-contact injury.

"He had a scan that showed a medial ligament problem. A specialist in London confirmed the injury.

"You can never be sure about timings with an injury like Ryan's but I would expect him to be out for at least two months."

GOOD START: Chris Hughton

Away the lads!

SEAGULLS ROAD FORM FIRES UP CHRIS

BRIGHTON boss Chris Hughton is urging his players to make Albion's travelling army proud.

The Seagulls will have 4,000 fans roaring them on at Elland Road, underlining the potential in the south coast club.

And the manager wants to make their long journey worthwhile.

Brighton go into the latest round of games sitting proudly on top of the Championship table.

They are unbeaten in the first 10 games as they sit ahead of the more fancied teams in the division.

And Hughton says their improved form on the road is the reason his team is doing so well.

He said: "We have picked up results away from home, which we didn't last season.

"That is progress and I think probably more than anything I've been pleased with our results away from home.

"We found it difficult on the road last season."

Uwe Rosler has had a patchy start to life as Leeds boss.

The Yorkshire giants have copped just three defeats so far but have only won twice, with five draws.

Leeds went into the international break on the back of a 2-0 beating against Birmingham that left them in 16th place.

Now Rosler has vowed to "shake things up and make things a little more simple" as he tries to turn their fortunes around.

The German hopes loan signing Will Buckley, who joined from Sunderland, can improve on his modest full debut in that match. Rosler still thinks United did the right thing in bringing the winger from the Black Cats.

He said: "Will will come good, there is no problem.

"He has experience and he's a proven player in the Championship. I'm very happy to have him."

Rosler has problems at the other end of the pitch, where keeper Ross Turnbull will be missing for a couple of months with a broken ankle.

He's been the No.2 this season but the club will look for a loan signing as cover.

Rosler said: "He's had an operation. I'm not a medical person but we're looking at a long-term injury,"

EASY DOES IT FOR BANNAN

WEDNESDAY are looking for their FIFTH win on the bounce against Hull.

The Owls' form took a sharp turn for the better before the international break.

They beat Newcastle in the Capital One Cup at St James's Park and picked up league wins against Fulham, Brentford and Preston.

In each of those games, Wednesday were well in control but failed to take their chances, meaning they couldn't relax until the final whistle.

And that's something Barry Bannan would like to improve on.

He said: "I know we've missed chances to put the game out of sight. That happens.

"But you're always going to have periods in games when the opposition are going to have a good go at you.

"Very few teams just roll over for you in this difficult division.

"We've been unfortunate in that it's come late on in games recently so we've ended up with a nervy finish.

"It's not something we're too concerned about really.

"We've won those games, we've come through them and we've kept going on this really good run that we're currently on.

"We've also shown our resilience under pressure in those games.

"We know that we've got a very solid defence and we're showing that."

Hull have made a decent start to the season and could go second in the table with a win in the eary kick-off.

Middlesbro v Fulham

Saturday, 3pm kick-off

BORO boss Aitor Karanka has warned his players that the hard work of the season has not yet started.

The Teessiders take on Fulham having made a solid start but the gaffer wants a lot more.

He said: "We won seven games but if you start to think it is easy it will be difficult.

"After Reading we know how difficult it is and we have to take the last games as an example to keep going.

"We know and we have to be ready for the next run of games. We have had time to take a break, but after Monday we don't have one second to rest."

MK Dons v Blackburn

Saturday, 3pm kick-off

ROVERS defender Markus Olsson says he came close to leaving Ewood Park — but is now fully committed to the cause.

The Sweden star said: "I did think about leaving. It almost happened but I didn't feel 100 per cent right to leave.

"I wanted to wait a little bit and then I got my chance while I waited.

"It felt good when I played and during the break the manager called me and what he told me on the phone is what I wanted to hear.

"I then signed a contract as it didn't feel right to leave."

Preston v Cardiff City

Saturday, 3pm kick-off

PRESTON striker Jermaine Beckford is closing on a return to action.

He went under the knife to repair a knee injury picked up in pre-season and the op went well.

He said: "My return will be sooner rather than later.

"At the moment my rehab is all about building up the muscles again, getting used to all the movement which you take for granted – walking, changing direction.

"I'm not setting myself a specific target in terms of being back, I'm taking each day as it comes.

"That is why you will always see me with a smile on my face."

Reading v Charlton

Saturday, 3pm kick-off

READING midfielder Danny Williams has warned his team-mates not to take Charlton lightly.

The Royals have seen off "better" teams in Burnley and Boro but the American is taking the Addicks seriously.

He said: "They are hard games because these teams work their bollocks off because they know, maybe they don't have the same quality as a Middlesbrough, but they can work and give 100 per cent.

"So we have to get our mind right and know what we can expect.

"These games are difficult."

CHARLIE McCANN

WITH HIS SPORTING [illegible] ODDS AND ENDS

RED-DY: Klopp begins his reign at White Hart Lane

Klopp 2s to Kop success at Spurs

THE Premier League is back this weekend and much media attention will focus on Jurgen Klopp's first game in charge of Liverpool at White Hart Lane.

This might be a good time to visit the north London club with Eric Dier suspended and Heung-Min Son missing the game through injury, but Klopp was dealt two blows of his own midweek with Joe Gomez and Danny Ings out for the season.

Liverpool have won the last five Premier League games against Spurs and in the 144 previous league meetings between the sides neither has, to this point, won six in a row.

Spurs are 29/20 to buck their recent trend against the Reds with the visitors 2/1 and the draw is 5/2.

Ross Barkley is 2/7 from 4/6 to make Roy Hodgson's 23-man squad for France 2016 after his Man of the Match performances for the Three Lions against Estonia and Lithuania.

The Everton midfielder is finally putting the end product to his game and whether he makes the starting XI or not, he is a certainty to make the squad given his ability to change games at the drop of his broad shoulders.

Barkley is 8/1 with BetVictor to be named PFA Young Player of the Year – Raheem Sterling at 5/1 is favourite – and that looks a very fair price given his start to the season for both club and country.

Everton have beaten Manchester United in the last three league games at Goodison and the 23/10 for the Blues to make it four is way too big.

It will be great to see three of the best young players in Europe on the same pitch at Goodison with Anthony Martial 6/1 to be named Young Player of the Year and John Stones 8/1.

Sergio Aguero was cut to 5/2 to be named PFA Player of the Year after his five goals against Newcastle, but he is becoming increasingly injury prone and at double the price Alexis Sanchez (left) (5/1) and Man City club mate Kevin de Bruyne (8/1) might be the value.

Sam Allardyce will take his Sunderland side to West Brom with the Black Cats looking for their first league win of the season.

Sunderland are 5/6 to finish bottom of the table and 1/3 to be relegated.

PAYET CAN COPE WITH BOOT BOYS

Crystal Palace v West Ham United

Saturday, 3pm kick-off

WEST HAM boss Slaven Bilic is backing Dimitri Payet to get the better of the Premier League hatchet men.

The French international looks like one of the finds of the transfer window and has made a big impact since moving from Marseille.

He has bagged four goals in his first eight league games and set up several more with his skills around the penalty area.

That's led to some industrial challenges from defenders.

But Bilic thinks the 28-year-old has more than enough class to get the better of his rivals.

The Hammers manager said: "I think teams have given Payet attention already.

"Maybe he was unknown to some of the fans, but everybody involved in football knew Dimitri Payet before he came to West Ham.

"He plays in a position where you have to close that space, whoever plays there.

Quality

"So I have no worries that there'll be extra attention on him.

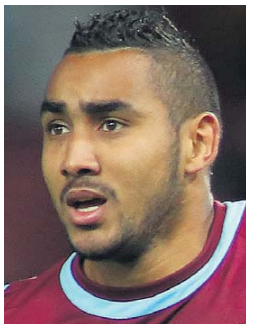
"He's got the quality that teams are trying to mark him."

There is mixed injuries news for the Hammers ahead of the minor London derby against Crystal Palace.

Aaron Cresswell and Winston Reid have minor knocks and are rated no better than "50-50" by Bilic to make the line-up.

And ex-Arsenal midfielder Alex Song is still "two or three weeks away from being available for selection" according to Bilic.

There was better news about the lesser spotted Andy Carroll, who is back in contention.



REVELATION: Payet

Enner Valencia is also back in action but it's too soon for him to face the Eagles.

Bilic added: "Valencia is still two or three weeks away from being able to play.

"But it's good to have Carroll back along with Angelo Ogbonna."

And Bilic is expecting a tough test at Selhurst Park.

He added: "Palace are a very good team.

"They are good in defence and capable of hitting you with quick counter-attacks.

"Alan Pardew is doing very well there and they have quality like Yohan Cabaye who can do great things.

"But we are looking to the match. It will be a really good test for us."

Bristol City v Nottingham Forest

Friday, 7.45pm kick-off, live on Sky Sports 1

Winless Robins are scared of playing

BRISTOL CITY'S Marlon Pack thinks the Robins players are SCARED of playing football.

The Robins are still looking for their first home win in the Championship — and the midfielder thinks the fear factor is coming into play.

City almost bagged three points at Ashton Gate against MK Dons, only to concede four minutes into injury time as they panicked.

An Pack (right) doesn't want a repeat when Forest come to town tonight.

He said: "When you are on a winless run, fear does play a part.

"It becomes a negative, especially when you are trying to protect a lead and you drop deeper.

"Maybe that is a sign of us being too desperate to get a win. We are not taking chances with the ball and we need to do that. If you are prepared to take chances, then you will get in on goal more often.

"We have to get that second goal, because we need that given the way we are playing at the moment.

"We have to start winning now rather than later – the longer this run goes on, the harder things will get for us."

LATEST ON SATURDAY'S PREMIER LEAGUE GAMES

THE SPECIAL GONE!

Jose fights for his job, just like Villa boss Tim

BOTH managers are under massive pressure going into an unlikely relegation six-pointer at Stamford Bridge.

Jose Mourinho has had the dreaded vote of confidence after Chelsea crashed into the bottom five on the back of a disastrous start to the season.

Villa boss Tim Sherwood hasn't even had that luxury as the Brummies kick off this weekend third from bottom.

The two teams have won just three times between them and both know a bad result here could have dire consequences.

If Villa cop a real beating, the rumours about Brendan Rodgers taking his job will grow even louder. And should the champions be beaten at home to the strugglers, even the Special One might be out on his earhole.

There was no sign of Sherwood ahead of this crucial clash, but his No.2 Ray Wilkins — a Chelsea legend himself — says it would be BONKERS to give his boss the bullet.

He said: "When you're a Premier League manager you're dreading the season's first sacking, because once the first goes the rest seem to buck up a bit of courage and follow suit.

"I think it would be a huge mistake as far as Tim and Aston Villa are concerned.

"He is an up-and-coming manager, he did extremely well at Tottenham and let's not forget, it was only six or seven months ago that we were in the FA Cup final and staved off relegation.

"We're under no illusions, it's going to be extremely tough for us, but Chelsea are going through a bit of a difficult time at the moment, so it's a good time for us to meet them."

Mourinho could do with a win having been held 2-2 by Newcastle, losing to Porto in the Champions League and going down 3-1 at HOME in the three games going into the international break.

Chelsea v Aston Villa

Saturday, 3pm kick-off

Fault

And that's led former Chelsea midfielder Craig Burley to call for the Portugeezer's head.

He thinks Roman Abramovich made a big mistake by letting Jurgen Klopp to go to Liverpool instead of bringing him to Stamford Bridge.

Burley said: "Klopp was out there, he was going to go to Liverpool, and Chelsea should have gone and got him.

"That didn't happen and clearly it wasn't going to happen, but that was my opinion of what they should have done. I would have gone and got him.

"Managers can get bad results, but Mourinho has to have a look at himself in terms of the way he handles things.

"It is not everyone else's fault all the time.

"His time is running out if he can't get this ship sailing in the right direction again."

Sam to put two up top to Bagg more goals

W Brom v Sunderland

Saturday, 3pm kick-off

SAM ALLARDYCE is thinking of abandoning his cautious principles and going for two up front.

That's so he can play Steven Fletcher and Jermain Defoe together for his struggling Sunderland side.

Former boss Dick Advocaat had space for only one striker with Defoe often left on the bench or asked to play out wide.

But Big Sam says he's looking at ways of getting both players into his starting line-up.

He said: "It's something that has preyed on my mind.

"Where do you get the opportunity to play 4-4-2 nowadays? Not very often.

"I'll have to try to work that out.

"But if the other eight players can cope behind a Steven Fletcher and Jermain Defoe partnership, then it's a possibility.

"If they can't cope, then it might mean that Fletcher and Defoe score, but the opposition score three.

"If we only score two, then it's a waste of time."

It would be a major shock if Big Sam adopted those tactics in his first game at the Baggies as his team would be outnumbered in midfield.

Positive

And he gave a strong hint that Fletcher would be leading the line alone.

Allardyce says the international break didn't help, but it was good to see his striker hit the target for Scotland.

The boss added: "One massive positive is Steven Fletcher scoring goals.

"I saw the goal he scored against West Ham and then he's scored at international level.

"The two most important guys on the football pitch are the goalkeeper and the goalscorer. That starts you to build a spine.

"We've got goalscorers and if they carry on, we just have to stop them going in at the other end – and that's an easier task than scoring goals, I'll tell you."

West Brom boss Tony Pulis is waiting on Jonny Evans, James Morrison and Jonas Olsson who are all battling to be fit to take on the Black Cats.

A LONG MONTH AHEAD FOR SAINTS

SOUTHAMPTON face an in-form Leicester without key striker Shane Long who is out for up to a month.

The hitman picked up an ankle injury playing for Ireland against Poland last week.

As well as being on the sidelines for the Saints, Long must be a doubt for the Republic's Euro 2016 play-off games in the middle of next month.

On the plus side for Saints fans, boss Ronald Koeman has assured them that he is NOT interested in the Holland job.

Bossing his country looked set to be a possibility with the likely sacking of Danny Blind after the Dutch failed to make even the Euro 2016 play-offs.

But Koeman said: "There is no possibility of me leaving Southampton to go and be the manager of Holland.

"I don't understand why people get so worried about it.

"Maybe in the future, but it depends on a lot of things happening in Holland."

Foxes boss Claudio Ranieri has a more positive view about international football — at least for the moment – as he thinks several of his players were boosted last week in their national colours.

He said: "The international break was good for my players.

"Many made it through to Euro 2016 and I will check on the condition of my players. I'll check again some on Friday."

Southampton v Leicester

Saturday, 3pm kick-off

Tough

He might be talking about Jamie Vardy in particular, who continued his rise up football's ranks by performing well for England again.

He's been one of the stars of the season and Ranieri is happy with the positive start Leicester have made to the campaign.

They sit in fifth place and have lost just one of their first eight games.

That's a massive improvement on last season where they looked down and out until a late rally.

But the Italian thinks the break means his players have to start all over again.

He said: "Now it's a new restart for us.

"It'll be a tough match for us and them. Southampton has a very good project.

"Slowly, slowly they want to arrive. We are starting a little behind but we want to achieve.

"The chairman is very happy. He wants us to continue to fight, enjoy and take points."

OUT: Shane Long

CONFIDENT: Wenger

Weng: We're Gunner win the league

Watford v Arsenal

Saturday, 5.30pm kick-off, live on Sky Sports 1

ARSENE WENGER says the Gunners CAN win the title – if they show the same fight as against Manchester United.

Arsenal were at their imperious best when swatting aside Louis van Gaal's visitors 3-0 at the Emirates before the international break.

The Frenchman thinks that proves his team are good enough — but they have to dig deep in every game, including against the likes of Watford who they face tomorrow.

He said: "You can compete for the championship if you turn up and fight for every game. We need to show the same quality every week.

"I think the Man United game can increase the belief and hunger of the players"

Wenger thinks the title race is the most open it's been for years, with as many as EIGHT sides capable of taking the Premier League crown.

He added: "The top eight can compete for the Premier League. It is difficult to rule anybody out."

Important

The international break came at a bad time for the Gunners boss who hopes his players can pick up where they left off.

Almost all of his team have been involved and he's concerned about Alexis Sanchez having to return to South America so much with Chile's heavy schedule.

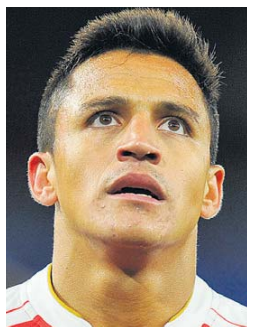
The striker went home carrying a knock but still played in both their World Cup qualifiers this week, including against Brazil where he hit the target.

Wenger said: "Some of the players come back so late after being away with their country that it's hard to assess.

"There is not a lot that you can do about it as a club manager

"Sanchez is an important player for Chile and he is a guy that always wants to play.

"I hope he will be fit to play against Watford but we don't know until we have seen him."



INJURED? Sanchez

There are still problems at the back, where Laurent Koscielny faces a late fitness test before the trip across north London.

Mikel Arteta and Mathieu Flamini are both carrying knocks but should be in the squad.

Wenger is not taking Watford lightly and he gives his back to manager Quique Sanchez Flores who has overseen a solid start to the season.

The Hornets have proven very difficult to beat since coming up from the Championship.

They have conceded just seven goals in eight games, although only six have gone in at the other end.

But sitting in 12th after just two defeats must be considered a good start.

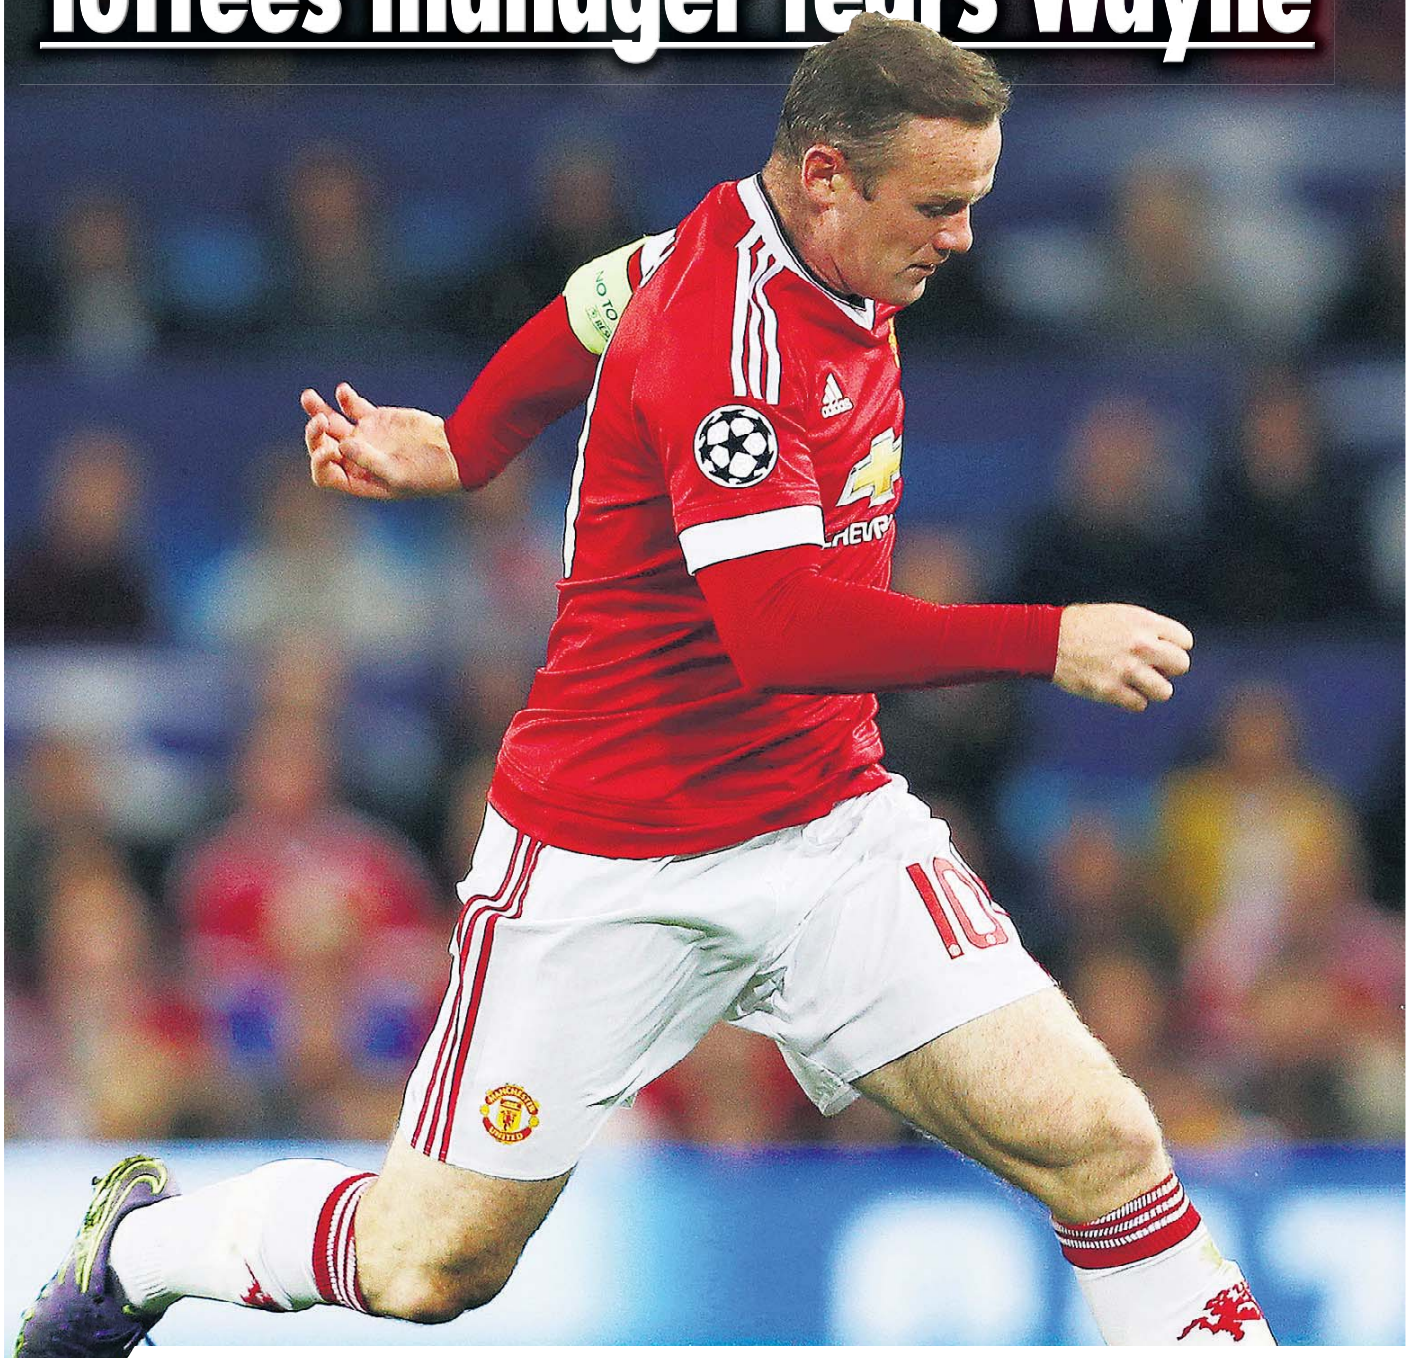
And Wenger agrees, saying: "I think that Flores is doing an excellent job at Watford.

"He has done extremely well since coming into the league."

PREMIER LEAGUE: EVERTON v

SCARED

Toffees manager fears Wayne



EVERTON gaffer Roberto Martinez says he DREADS facing Wayne Rooney.

By MARK NAYLOR

The former Toffee has come in for plenty of stick from United fans and pundits for his recent lack of goals.

He's bagged just once in 13 Premier League outings for the Red Devils.

But the Everton manager still wishes he was INJURED rather than travelling to Goodison tomorrow.

Rooney has shaken off the knocks that kept him out of England's final qualifiers and is expected to lead out United.

And Martinez is fearing the worst. He said: "Wayne's contribution is about more than just goals.

"If I'm honest I'd prefer he didn't play against us — they are a better team when he plays."

Maybe the Goodison gaffer should be more confidence as his side has an excellent record against United in recent seasons.

Everton have won their past three home league games against Louis van Gaal's side — without conceding a goal.

Praise

But Martinez says that counts for little when the players cross the white line.

He said: "The records and previous results mean very little. We respect this Manchester United side.

"They have become really strong this season. They had a hiccup against Arsenal, but I expect them to be very hard to play against."

One of the reasons why Rooney's future for club and country has been called into question is the fantastic form of Ross Barkley.

The 21-year-old stood out as England's star man against Estonia and Lithuania and even earned praise from cautious Three Lions boss Roy Hodgson.

He has echoes of a young Rooney in that he likes to attack and has an eye for goal. Most people can't see Hodgson playing Wayne and Ross in the same team — and the jury is out on who would be more influential at international level.

With United also sniffing around Barkley — and a summer bid for him expected — Martinez is understandably trying to keep a lid on the circus around his player.

He said: "I'm a bit surprised by the hype that has developed just because of two performances for England. We see that kind of display from him week in, week out.

"It's not just scoring goals it's using his presence in the final third a bit more.

"There's been a focus on him being a bit more aware of what he can do.

Improvement

"In Ross' case I've been pleased with his assists, final movement and pulling people out of postion.

"That understanding has gone to a different level.

"His big improvement so far this season has been in that area."

Everton's season to date has been blighted by injuries, particularly at the back.

But there is good news about John Stones, who is making excellent progress in getting over his knee problem.

Martinez said: "Medically he's fit, but from a football point of view we need to make a decision in the next 48 hours."

Seamus Coleman picked up a knock playing for Ireland, but he's also expected to line-up alongside Phil Jagielka who skippered England in Lithuania.

Leighton Baines has been out since the summer, but he is also on the road to recovery.

Martinez added: "He's ready to join the group.

"You know not to set a time for his comeback because he's always ahead of schedule.

"I'd say two weeks."

As for Jagielka, Martinez is proud to have an England captain in the squad, saying: "It was a fitting reward and the way he performed was magnificent."

Bony targets a goal Serg for the Blues

Manchester City v Bournemouth

Saturday, 3pm kick-off

WILFRIED BONY says he can make City fans forget all about Sergio Aguero.

The Ivorian has struggled to make an impact since his move from Swansea in January.

He's had his own fitness problems since then, but the injury to the Argentine hitman has opened the door to City's first-team.

And it's a chance that he intends to grab with both hands.

Bony said: "A lot of crazy things have happened since I joined City and I've been ruled out with injury three or four times so it's been hard to find any rhythm playing one or two games here and there."

The 26-year-old didn't mince his words, adding: "It's been the worst spell of my career without question.

"In the past five years I'd never missed more than two games in a row and at Swansea I only missed a handful of matches and that was mostly because of a red card I received.

Frustrating

"I've had nothing but bad luck in the past year, but hopefully, that's the end of it now.

"It's not been the best time for me in that respect and has been very frustrating, but hopefully the City fans will now see the new Bony.

"All I need is the first goal to come and hopefully many others will follow.

"It's never good when your team-mates are injured, but that's the way football goes sometimes.

"Now I need to take things game by game and work hard.

"I have to take my chance and score goals for the team – that's why I'm here."

The visit of the Cherries looks the simplest task facing Manuel Pellegrini's side in the next few weeks, as after that they take on deadly rivals Man United and have a must-win Champions League double-header with Sevilla to get through.

OUT: Aguero

Bournemouth might not have lost such a high-profile star as Aguero, but injuries are threatening to ruin their first season in the top flight.

They have already lost Callum Wilson, Tyrone Mings and Max Gradel for most of the campaign.

And this week they added the name of Tommy Elphick to their long-term casualties.

He'll be missing until January with an ankle problem.

He is likely to be replaced by veteran Slyvain Distain, who is confident that his team will be up to the task.

He spent five years at City and is trying to pass on his experience.

He said: "The players we have here have done very well so far.

"I am here to help them as much as I can. If they ask me I will use my experience for the good of the team."

PLEDGE: Jurgen Klopp

RUN & FIGHT!

Klopp lays down the law but loses Ings for season

JURGEN Klopp has been hit by a massive blow on the eve of his first game in charge of Liverpool.

Danny Ings has been ruled out for the rest of the season — at least — with a cruciate knee ligament injury.

The new England striker was crocked in training with the Reds and leaves Klopp with a huge hole in attack.

Christian Benteke and Roberto Firmino are both still short of full fitness and Danny Sturridge is on the way back from a series of knocks.

Ings is the second Red to be ruled out for the season after defender Joe Gomez came back from England duty with a similar problem.

The news comes as the German urged his players to "run and fight" for the Liverpool cause.

Klopp takes his side to White Hart Lane with a simple message: "It's only football, we must play like our best dream."

He has had just a couple of training sessions with the players but already thinks he can unlock their potential.

The German added: "I know how I want to play. At the end it is only football. Now we have to open our chests, run and fight and shoot.

"I want to see more braveness. I want to see fun in their eyes. I want to see that they like what they do.

"The bravery is to make mistakes. This is a fantastic game, football. We all love it because it can be spectacular, fast, hard.

"But it doesn't work without faults. We all, as human beings, think about them, but it's not important to think about how many mistakes you make.

"You can always get better, if you accept that mistakes will happen. It's not the biggest thing in the world.

"We have to be compact, close together tactically, and if you are close then you have options to play with and who can support you.

"You don't always have to try the most risky ball if you are compact.

"You have to run, to fight, until the moment, and then bang you take it."

Klopp wouldn't be drawn on the type of changes he will be making — both in terms of selection and tactics.

He realises it will be tough to take anything at White Hart Lane against an in-form Tottenham side.

The German added: "We play against a very good Premier League team in Spurs. They are fine tuned. We know how they want to play."

Tottenham boss Mauricio Pochettino is looking forward to the challenge of facing Klopp.

He said: "It is great for the Premier League to have a manager of his quality here."
